LINER'S MASTER 'OBEYED ORDERS' TO SCUTTLE HER

579 Seamen Arrive at Ellis Island After Sending Their Vessel to Bottom of Atlantic.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—
(AP)—The German liner Columbus was set afire and scuttled "under orders," her master, Captain Wilhelm Daehne, declared on his arrival here tonight with 578 rescued Nazi sailors.

This was understood to mean the Columbus was sent to the bottom at the direction of Adolf Hitler, who had ordered similar destruction last Sunday of the German pocket battleship Graf Spee, whose commander committed suicide in Buenos Aires today.

An indication that scuttling was ordered in advance under blanket instructions from Berlin was added by Henry Lampe, 27, the Columbus' third officer, who said: "As soon as the destroyer (the British craft which cornered the liner off the Virginia coast yesterday) was sighted, the alarm was given on the Columbus—we were already under orders what to do."

Say Destroyer Was Hyperion.
The Columbus' survivors identified the British destroyer as the Hyperion.

Lampe said that when the Hyperion was within half a mile it fired a warning shot across the bow of the Columbus. The men of the Columbus ran immediately to their stations, he said, and a group in the engine room began opening the sea valves while others took drums of benzine and soaked parts of the ship.

Behind them came sailors with signal torches.
"Meanwhile, Lampe added, "the crew members got away from the ship in 22 lifeboats, all the time laughing and joking. There was no disorder at any time. All the men knew what they had to do and did it quickly and well."

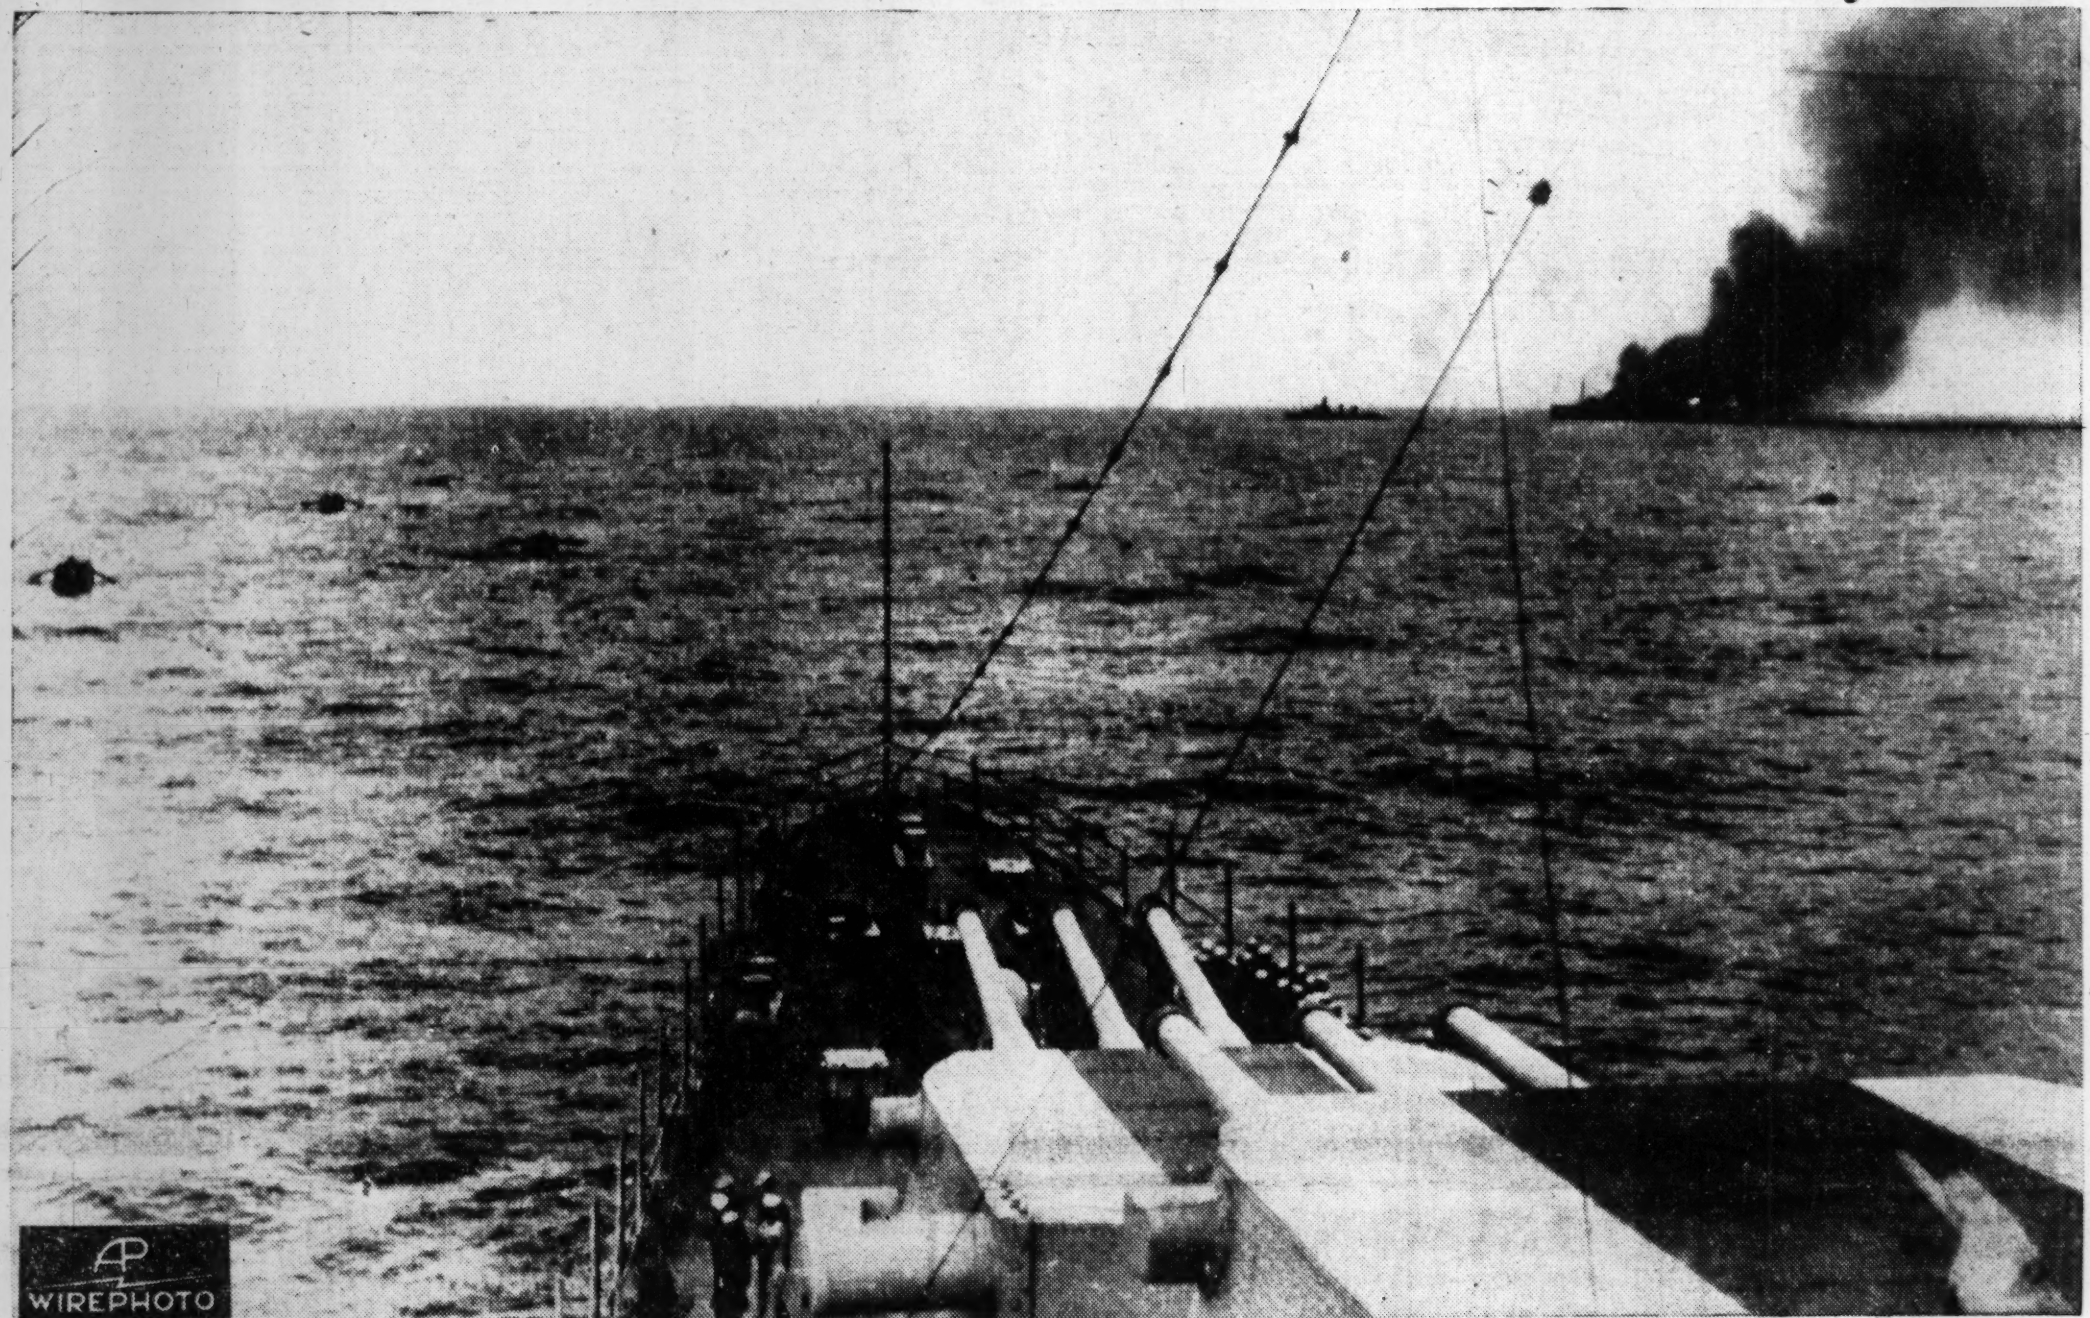

Crew "Perfect".
Captain Daehne declared his crew was "perfect"—it had been "trained for weeks and knew just what to do."

Captain Daehne and his crew arrived late in the day aboard the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa, which had picked them up as they sat gloomily in their lifeboats watching the old Columbus settle slowly in flames.

The seamen were taken from the Tuscaloosa by coast guard cutters and transferred to Ellis

Flames Roar as Columbus' Crew Abandons Her to Davy Jones

From the trim bow of the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa, the camera caught this saga of sea warfare near American shores: The burning and scuttling of the German luxury liner Columbus by her own crew. The Lilliputian British destroyer in left background was waiting to strike, her mere presence the reason for the Germans' action. As the camera lens was flicked, lifeboats from the Columbus wallowed slowly toward the Tuscaloosa and safety. All but two members of the Nazi ship's crew were rescued. Security in 1940 Is Assured For Four Opportunity Families

Injury Renders Mr. R. Jobless

A terrific automobile crash this fall left Mr. R. Permanently crippled. His leg was crushed. He had been a painter and paper-hanger and capable of making a comfortable living for himself and his young wife and four-year-old son. He's no good at his trade now.

Mr. R. must rehabilitate his whole life, learn a new way of making a living. And that takes time and money. The Constitution tells you about this tragedy of the road as your Christmas Opportunity No. 14.

The disaster that automobile

Cases Are Adopted by Individual Employees of Two Firms.

By FRANK DRAKE
Four Opportunity families whose desperate problems threatened to overwhelm them and make them forever public charges yesterday were assured of a helping hand during 1940 while they try mightily to win their own independence.

A generous woman who lives in a fashionable residential section "adopted" one, the workers at the Southern Freight Tariff Bureau "adopted" another—and the employees and officials of The Constitution, which annually presents the Ten Opportunities at Christmas time, "adopted" TWO!

All these families have especially difficult problems to overcome, in addition to the mere need for money, just as have the families of Opportunity No. 14 and Opportunity No. 15, whose stories appear in adjoining columns today. And just as have the families, needy but deserving, whose stories will be told every day until Christmas. These families really

Demoralized, Needs Chance

Mr. S. is a completely demoralized man. Fate has hit him so often and so hard that he is on the verge of just giving up and going under. But there is still a spark of ambition and a sense of responsibility in him and that's why he is Opportunity No. 15.

His wife and three children, Annie, 13; John, 7; and Dorothy, 2, are looking to him for their food and shelter and he has nothing with which to provide it. It will take $60 a month to see this family through until all its problems are solved and Mr. S. becomes self-supporting again.

Mr. S. was a salesman a few years ago. He was making a fair living until the depression came. So Mr. S. figured the best way to weather the storm was to operate a farm. He tried that four years and finally had to give it up because his weakened health would not permit the strenuous outdoor work. Because he has not been able to make a living for his wife and children, the last few years, Mr. S. has begun to look at himself as a failure. Sometimes he doubts if there is anything he can do successfully. At other times he is full of confidence. Workers of the Family Welfare Society say they believe he could make a go of it if only he was helped until he can feel secure and fully confident. His morale must be built up.

Won't you help this discouraged man? He is worthy of your aid, we are sure. This family will not be together long unless Atlantans this Christmas want to help Mr. S.

AMERICAS DRAFT WARNING ON ZONE

21 Nations Will Accuse Belligerents of Violating Neutrality Areas.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A joint declaration accusing European belligerents of repeatedly violating the western hemisphere neutrality zone and warning them against future violations was being drafted tonight by the 21 American republics in common diplomatic consultation.

The declaration, which will be communicated to the belligerents by Don Augusto Boyd, president of Panama, will contain a clear-cut indication that the American republics will be forced in future to take more than diplomatic action to see that the zone is respected. It may be issued Friday.

British to Fight Anywhere
(Meanwhile, in London, it was intimated that the British government, apparently committed to a more vigorous naval policy, feels the royal navy has a right to fight battles anywhere on the international seas, regardless of the Pan-American 300-mile "safety zone.")

(Discussion of whether the battle between the scuttled German pocket battleship Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the coast of Uruguay last week violated the American neutrality position has been carefully avoided here.)

Americans Are Alarmed.
The American governments, it was learned, have become genuinely alarmed by the sudden burst of incidents occurring within the neutrality zone. In the last week there have been at least four:

The Anglo-German naval battle off the coast of Uruguay; the flight of the German freighter Aruca into Port Everglades harbor,

Swedish 'Volunteers' Readied To Aid Finns

Several Corps Will Be Ready in a Few Days; 10,000 Expected.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 20.—(UP). The committee for Finnish aid reported tonight that several corps of Swedish volunteers will be ready within a few days to take up arms for Finland.

They will be under command of Gen. Ernst Linder, formerly of the Swedish army.

Earlier it had been reported that 5,000 Swedish volunteers were ready for service against Russian armies invading Finland and that the figure was expected to reach 10,000 soon.

FORMER REGULAR SWEDISH SOLDIERS

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 20.—(UP). Diplomatic reports reaching here tonight said the Swedish "volunteers" serving in Finland will have the same status that Italy's "volunteer" forces had during the Spanish Civil War when thousands of Italians aided Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The reports described the "volunteers" as former regular soldiers in the Swedish army and said that 10,000 men had been assigned to duty in Finland. About 5,000 Swedes already are fighting on Finnish soil, it was said.

The reports described Swedish public opinion as practically unanimously in favor of sending as many men to Finland as possible.

Russia Unleashes Crushing Forces

By LYNN HEINZERLING.
WITH THE FINNISH ARMY ON THE KARELIAN FRONT, Dec. 20. SPECIAL ELECTION TO FILL OFFICES ORDERED BY JUDGE

Ousted Trio File Appeal, Which Is Granted by Court; Clerk Is Named
To Conduct Business.

Three Clayton county commissioners found guilty of malpractice were removed from office yesterday and ordered to pay court costs on order of Judge James C. Davis, of the Stone Mountain circuit. They were F. C. Cargile, board chairman; E. L. Stephens and W. S. Lee.

Commissioner J. R. Wallis resigned from the board without facing trial on the charges against him. The fifth, Commissioner H. Grady Moore, will be prohibited from participating in county business pending appeal of a demurrer filed unsuccessfully during his hearing Monday.

Orders Election
In dissolving the commission, Judge Davis became empowered as a superior court judge to appoint successors. After conferring with Judge Alan Kemper, Clayton county ordinary, he ruled that a special election should be held and he announced those voted by the citizens would be appointed. Judge Kemper called a special election for January 20 and said the deadline for qualifying of candidates would be January 5.

Pending the special election, Judge Davis named Miss A. L. Rutherford, clerk of the county commission board, to conduct county business.

Cargile and Stephens had been found guilty on three of five counts lodge against them by a November grand jury; Lee was found guilty on but one count.

Mistrial Declared
A mistrial in proceedings against Moore was declared by Judge Davis yesterday morning after a jury remained in deadlock for nearly 40 hours. Rather than call a new trial, Solicitor Roy Leathers accepted Moore's offer to resign temporarily pending his appeal to quash the indictment.

Immediately after sentence was passed, counsel for Cargile, Stephens and Lee filed an appeal, which the court granted. Their appeal will differ from that of Moore in that they will seek overruling of the verdicts returned by the juries.

The officials were indicted in November on five counts. The first held that the commission illegally paid salaries to Sheriff E. L. Adamson and Deputy Sheriff

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, and Mrs. Brittain yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 204 North avenue. When they received a huge bouquet of yellow roses, Mrs. Brittain decided to pin a rose on her husband to match her shoulder spray of the yellow blossoms.

Captain Wilhelm Daehne, shown being escorted by United States immigration officials, declared at New York last night that the German liner Columbus was set afire and scuttled "under orders." These orders were believed to have come from Adolf Hitler.

Mrs. Orson Welles, in Reno, Decides To Divorce Actor and Selects Charge

Declares Ground for Suit Will Be 'Something Like Incompatibility.'

RENO, Nev. Dec. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Orson Welles, wife of the radio dramatist and actor, spent her first day in Reno today and decided, her attorney, Albert Hilliard, said, that her divorce suit would be based on "something like incompatibility."

This meant that the former Anna Stafford of the stage probably would file suit about February 1 to divorce Welles and that her case would be based on the usual charge of mental cruelty. Mrs. Welles arrived from New York by plane last night.

She was not accompanied by her 18-month-old daughter, but it was understood here she would receive custody of the child. She was married to Welles at Woodstock, Ill., December 24, 1934.

Rome Teachers Ask $5,000 Damages Each.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
ROME, Ga., Dec. 20.—Three Rome school teachers today filed damage suits in Floyd superior court for $5,000 each against E. C. Meadows, of Calhoun, for injuries allegedly received in an automobile wreck several weeks ago.

The petitioners, Misses Lillian Coulter, Florence Hudgins and Cordelia Veal, were riding in the same car in which Mrs. H. F. Saumenig, prominent Rome teacher, was fatally injured. The crash occurred November 5 on the Calhoun road about five miles from Rome.

The petitioners claim Meadows was traveling at a rate of speed exceeding 55 miles an hour, and that he swerved his machine to the left and hit the car driven by Mrs. Saumenig, wife of the rector of St. Peter's church here.

COURT WILL HEAR TWO SUITS TODAY ON MILLER OUSTER

Three Judges To Take Up
Petition Against Patten and Other Road Board Members at Lakeland.

Two more legal actions growing out of the ouster of W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, will be heard by the Lanier superior court today, although the highway department property remains under martial law.

Judge W. R. Smith, of Nashville, aided by Judges M. D. Dickerson, of Douglas, and W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, are scheduled today to take up Miller's quo warranto petition against L. L. Patten, a fellow resident of Lakeland, who "succeeded" Miller as board chairman, but who has resigned that office since the quo warranto was filed.

Another Petition
The three-judge court also is expected to take up a mandamus petition filed by Miller seeking to force Commissioners Jim L. Gillis, of Soperton, and Herman H. Watson, of Dallas, to recognize him as chairman.

It could not be learned what effect the resignation of Patten as board chairman would have on the quo warranto suit. Patten was appointed board member to succeed Watson and then elected to the chairmanship by Gillis and Watson, Gillis taking Miller's place on the board and Watson taking the place formerly held by Gillis. The quo warranto filed by Miller is against Patten as chairman, but whether it could be prosecuted against him as board member had not been determined last night.

Miller Leaves
Miller, who has been maintaining headquarters in an Atlanta hotel, left yesterday for Lakeland following a radio speech here Tuesday in which he answered charges made against him by Governor Rivers.

The highway department remained quiet yesterday. Patten, Gillis and Watson continued to administer the department affairs as a board, with none of them acting as chairman. Gillis and Watson, comprising a majority of the board, signed all papers. Lieut. Col. James H. Skelton of the National Guard and one or two enlisted men remained in the highway building in technical control of the property.

DECISION ON CURTIS DEFERRED BY BOARD

Testimony Record Awaited
Before Fate of Examination
Director Is Announced.

The merit board of the State Department of Labor announced yesterday that it had deferred action until next week on the appeal of Mrs. Maud Curtis, suspended director of examinations, who was given a hearing Tuesday.

George L. Cooge, Atlanta member of the three-man board, said that his group had to await a transcription of the testimony at the Curtis hearing, and that the transcript would not be available for several days.

Googe added that in the meantime, Dr. T. J. Lance, of Young Harris, merit board chairman, had taken charge of Mrs. Curtis' office.

NATION'S HIGHWAYS CALLED 'OBSOLETE'

Executive Says Roads Need
'Face Lifting.'

American highways need a "face-lifting," Herbert R. Anderson, Chicago, vice president of the American Road Builders' Association, declared here yesterday.

"Many miles of the primary highway system are outmoded when compared with modern traffic demands," he pointed out. "The 'obsolete point' is reached for highways when motorists reach the 'boiling point,' and they certainly are boiling now when they try to drive a 1940 car over a 1920 road."

Anderson, who will leave tomorrow for Miami, is in Atlanta to conduct a series of conferences with Paul Andrews, secretary of the Georgia Highway Contractors.

BUREAU OFFICIAL RESIGNS.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Fletcher H. Rawls as assistant director of the commerce department's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Rawls will assume his previous position in the department as chief of the division of foodstuffs.

TAX COLLECTION SPURTS BEYOND $3,000,000 MARK

1939 Figure Is More Than $500,000 Above Period in 1938; 1,000 Returns Still To Be Handled.

Collection of 1939 ad valorem taxes passed the three-million-dollar mark yesterday, T. Earle Suttles, state and county tax collector, said. This is more than $500,000 above the same period last year.

At the close of business Monday, collections totaled $2,584,914. Tuesday brought almost $100,000 in cash and in addition checks which pushed the total above the three-million mark.

Suttles said yesterday there are still more than a thousand mail returns to be handled.

County Auditor James L. Respass estimates the collection by December 31 will reach at least $3,209,181, and results to date bear this out.

Meanwhile, the tax collector is completing plans for the sale of $500,000 worth of f. f. as, before the end of the year so that maximum results may be obtained from the digest in view of the county's new budget law which becomes operative in 1940.

Under terms of this budget law, the county must hold its allocations to 99 per cent of the actual collections in 1939. Failure to collect a large majority of the digest will bring curtailment in county services and salaries next year, the commissioners have warned.

C. C. COX IS NAMED MASONIC OFFICIAL

Attorney Is Chosen Worshipful Master of Lodge No. 96.

Charles C. Cox, Atlanta attorney, has been named worshipful master of Georgia Lodge No. 96, F. & A. M., it was announced yesterday.

Other officers for 1940 are: Emanuel J. Goldstein, senior warden; Moreton M. Rolleston, junior warden; Guy Thurman, treasurer; Claude R. Gaines, secretary; Dan A. McKeever Jr., senior deacon; Louis W. Cleveland, junior deacon; Eugene C. McLaughlin, senior steward; Glenn Ross Dell, junior steward; Arthur Wallace, Tyler, and Nathan H. Saltzman, chaplain. Officers of the Fellowship Club, a group within the lodge interested in dramatization of the master's degree, are: W. E. Barnes, master craftsman; J. C. Bearden, junior craftsman, and G. R. Dell, secretary.

Committees and other posts for the coming years will be as follows: Finance, John Dewey Chestnut, chairman; William B. Schwartz and Richard F. Stephens, temple director; William B. Schwartz, Masonic board of relief; Claude R. Gaines, charity, master and wardens; historian, J. Edwin Walker; sick and visitation, Moreton M. Rolleston, chairman; J. S. Weems, J. N. O'Farrell Jr., Harry Glick and Franklin Richards.

Mr. Rolleston also will serve as editor of the Georgia Lodge Tidings, assisted by Glenn Ross Dell and Gould M. Hambricht as associate editors.

Election of officers and the annual dinner were held Tuesday night at the Masonic temple. Three hundred attended.

Wild turkeys are not migrating birds, but they require a larger area on which to roam than most resident bird species.

YULE SPIRIT GROWS AT THE CITY HALL

But Mayor Hartsfield Is Caught Unaware With No Time To Shop.

The Christmas spirit attacked the city hall in a double dose yesterday, but Mayor Hartsfield was caught unaware with no time for holiday shopping.

Members of the Public Forum of the Atlanta school system staged a Christmas tree party in the city council chamber, and the Atlanta Club, organization of women employees of the city hall, held its annual Christmas tree party at Davison's.

While all these pre-holiday parties were developing, the mayor took time out from correspondence concerning the world premiere of "Gone With the Wind" to announce this probably will be his first presentless and cardless Christmas.

Members of the school administrative staff will hold a Christmas party in the city council chamber this afternoon, and tomorrow afternoon just before the city hall closes for the holidays to open again Tuesday morning, attaches of the water and the comptroller's offices will stage their annual parties. Decorated Christmas trees have been set up in both offices in preparation for the celebration.

RESTORE NATURE'S GIFT TO YOUR SCALP

END DANDRUFF RE-GROW HAIR

NATURE Presented your scalp with the structure necessary to grow hair when you were born. Dandruff (dry scales or greasy-pasty-itchy scalp film), falling hair and other scalp disorders have made it temporarily impossible for your hair-growing structure to function properly. Thomas' can overcome these scalp troubles for you and actually promote hair growth on the thin or bald spots. Why not give yourself a good head of hair for Christmas? Call today for a free scalp examination.

ENGINEER, FIREMAN MISSING IN WRECK

SCHUYLER, Neb., Dec. 20.—(UP)—The engineer and fireman of eastbound Union Pacific mail train No. 6 were believed killed tonight when their 14-car limited struck a trainman's automobile and was derailed. In the wreckage, presumably, were bodies of Engineer David Jones and Fireman Lee Roberts, Omaha.

The automobile was driven by M. D. Wilson, Schuyler, a Burlington railroad conductor, who leaped when his car stalled on the crossing.

U. S. To Unify Air Defenses In Vital Industrial Section

Northeastern Area Where Most of Nation's War Supplies Are Produced To Be Placed Under One Command.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—The army general staff disclosed today that the air raid defenses of the industrial northeast would be placed under a single command like those protecting London, Paris, and Berlin.

Anti-aircraft guns, interceptor planes, and warning signals for an area which produces some 80 per cent of all American war supplies will be put under the direction of Col. James E. Chaney, now commander at Mitchell Field, L. I. His promotion to Brigadier General was announced today.

The War Department gave no hint of a belief that the Atlantic seaboard had come within the lengthening range of bombers.

Secretary Woodring described the move as "an important step toward the completion of comprehensive plans for the national defense."

Control of air raid defenses is scattered now. The coast artillery has charge of anti-aircraft guns, the air corps of quick-climbing interceptor pursuit planes already under construction, and the signal corps is concerned with flashing warning signals.

The unified defense area extends roughly from Detroit to the Virginia Capes, and includes New York, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and the New England arms manufacturing area.

Upon its completion, the new $8,000,000 northeast air base near Holyoke, Mass., recently named Westover Field, will become one of the most important elements of the new organization, the War Department said.

Colonel Chaney is a former member of the general staff and accompanied General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, on last summer's good will mission to Brazil. He is a native of Chaney, Maryland.

Among other appointments approved today was that of Colonel John F. Williams, of the Missouri national guard, to head the War Department's National Guard Bureau. Colonel Williams, who will hold the rank of major general, will succeed Major General Albert H. Blanding.

The President also approved the appointment of Colonel Edmund B. Gregory, a native of Storm Lake, Iowa, to be quartermaster general of the army. He will serve for four years with rank of major general, succeeding Major General Henry Gibbins.

TEACHERS ARE PAID

LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 20.—County school teachers were receiving money due them for December salaries today, despite the fact the state has failed to meet its obligations. J. H. Nelson, county superintendent, announced. Bus drivers will be paid Friday, he said.

Island, harbor refuge of immigrants and aliens, and made comfortable for the night.

Tomorrow they will be given a hearing to determine their exact status, which, in the meantime, was presumed by the authorities to be that simply of seamen in distress—victims as much as though the Columbus had simply foundered in a gale.

(At Washington, meanwhile, State Department officials disclosed today that the Columbus was scuttled almost 250 miles inside America's neutrality zone. Immediately they began a study to determine whether this meant that an act of war had occurred within the zone.)

(First information yesterday from Stephen Early, White House press secretary, was that the scuttling had taken place when a British man-of-war had come upon the big liner outside the zone. But later expert calculation of the ship's position given by the Tuscaloosa placed the sinking at 240 miles southeast of Nantucket Shoals lightship, a position well within the American neutrality zone.)

If they pass the test—and if it is formally determined that the vessel was no more than a merchantman and no sort of belligerent—they will be permitted to stay in this country for 60 days.

Captain Daehne had carried out the job he assigned to himself before clearing Vera Cruz, Mexico, on the old ship's last voyage: "They'll never get my ship; I'll look out for my crew."

For as his men—some with duffel bags and some with nothing but the clothes on their backs—straggled into the Ellis Island administration building by twos and threes—they raised new hope for the two crew members who had been feared lost. They said the two had somehow stayed aboard when the order came to abandon ship but probably had been picked up by the British destroyer.

The captain himself, walking ashore with an immigration official, was matter-of-fact. "The crew," he said briskly, "is all right."

AMERICAS DRAFT WARNING ON ZONE

Fla., from the British cruiser Orion; the scuttling of the German liner Columbus, overhauled by a British destroyer; and the halting of the American liner Santa Rosa by the French cruiser Jeanne D'Arc.

When Secretary Hull's attention was called to this series of incidents at his press conference today, he expressed the belief that the steps the American republics were taking would bring the matter of the neutrality zone to a head.

In the case of the liner Columbus, a White House spokesman expressed the opinion that no belligerent act had been committed, since the ship had been scuttled by its own crew and had not been shelled or sunk by the British destroyer. The liner was apparently overhauled, however, about 240 miles inside the neutrality zone.

THREE TO GIVE AGES AND RECEIVE ESTATE

Two Sons and Daughter of Lucian B. Sanders To Share $270,000.

By declaring their ages for court record, heirs of the late Lucian B. Sanders, wealthy Atlanta lumberman, now stand ready to receive benefits of his estate, estimated at $270,000, Attorney Reuben Garland said last night.

Under terms of the will, filed in 1922, the children were to receive half their share in the estate when they reached 30 years of age and the other half on becoming 35, Garland said. In 1937, with some of the children of age, Attorneys Marvin Russell and Garland filed suit to claim the money for the children.

After two trips to the supreme court, the high court has directed the children file their ages and thus qualify for receiving their shares. The amendment, which will be filed today in Fulton superior court, Garland says, states two of the children are more than 35 and one is more than 30. Dickerson and Roger Sanders and Mrs. Julia Sanders Riley are the heirs, Garland said.

FIRE LOSS CUT.

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 20.—Dublin's fire loss in 1939 showed considerable reduction from 1938, according to Fire Chief Rob Orr's report to city council. Chief Orr stated his department answered 105 alarms. The blazes caused a loss of $7,015.25, compared with a loss in 1938 of $9,295.71.

Certainly, dear, I have a CORNFIELD Ham

Ann, the Gordons are stopping by tonight... any food?

AND OF COURSE guests always drop in during the holidays. The exchange of visits, greetings and gifts is a pleasant old-time custom during this season of the year.

Holiday guests are as welcome as Old Santa himself—to the housewife who has on hand a CORNFIELD Ham.

It's almost as much fun to watch them exclaim over its tenderness—as it is to watch the children around the Xmas tree. They appreciate the center slice flavor from end to end,—well, almost as much as an unexpected gift.

Here's a new idea for Xmas dinner

When baked, score the ham in diamonds. For a glaze, use honey and brown sugar. For an unusual garnish: Tinted pears—using whole stem—on canned or spiced pears. Holding stem end, dip sides in red sugar to form three streaks. Serve hot or cold.

Just as sure as you trim the tree and hang the holly—be certain to order a CORNFIELD Ham from your dealer.

Wedding of M. L. Brittain, Miss McDonald Described

(From The Atlanta Constitution, December 21, 1889.)

One of the most beautiful weddings ever seen in Atlanta was that which united Miss Lettie McDonald to Mr. Marion Luther Brittain at the Second Baptist church last evening. Back of the pulpit was arranged a graceful bank of palms and calla lilies, and two pyramids adorned either side. The altar railing was trimmed with ivy, and with 100 white wax apers which made a circle of light around the railing, completing a decoration rarely unique and beautiful.

The bride made a lovely picture in her long-trained robe of white tulle, trimmed with dutch lace and adorned with nephitis roses. The same pure white blossoms formed her bouquet and fastened her veil upon her fair head; diamond ornaments completed her toilet.

The maid of honor, Miss Nannie Tucker, of Campbellville, Ky., wore an elegant toilet of white crepe de chine and gold lace, and carried white roses. The other bridesmaids wore lovely white crepe de chine, with tulle draperies, and carried LaFrance blossoms.

Wedding Party.

The bridal party entered the church to the grand strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, in the following order:
Ushers—Professor Slaton, Mr. Paxton, Mr. Stewart and Professor Mobley.

Attendants—Miss Sallie Brown and Miss Jennie Davis, Mr. James Nutting and Mr. Elijah Brown, Miss Aurelia Roach and Miss Julia Ketchum, Mr. Earnest Kontz and Mr. Will Reid, Miss Mary B. Pendleton and Miss Jessie Muse, Mr. Henry McDonald and Mr. Owen. The maid of honor, Miss Turner, walked up the aisle alone, and the bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. McDonald, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Lee Douglass. The ceremony was gracefully and eloquently performed by the fathers of the bride and groom, Dr. McDonald and Dr. Brittain, of Augusta. The wedding party and relatives were invited afterward to an elegant reception at the home of the bride on Washington street.

The house was beautifully adorned, and the wedding table was ornamented with rare fruits and flowers and beautiful cakes, and illuminated with many white wax tapers in silver candelabras.

Honeymoon Trip.

In Dr. McDonald's cozy library the presents, many and elegant, were displayed.
At 11 o'clock the happy pair took the train for New Orleans, where they will spend their honeymoon.
No young couple commence life with fairer prospects and heartier good wishes. The bride is the daughter of Rev. Henry McDonald, D. D., and her many noble and womanly qualities, and her intellectual brilliancy have made her universally admired and beloved.

As principal of the Ivy street school, Professor Brittain has taken a high place in his profession, where he is admired as a teacher, and honored and beloved as a man.

DR. BRITTAIN, WIFE MARRIED 50 YEARS

ionable events of 1889 in Atlanta, Dr. Brittain said, "Look in the old files of The Constitution. They printed a story about the wedding. It will tell you just what a pretty bride I had."

Mrs. Brittain, smiling happily, blushed a bit, and said she wished she could see the paper herself, because she never got to read an account of the wedding. And so this morning The Constitution prints the story which appeared on the society pages of The Constitution on Saturday morning, December 21, 1889. Now, after 50 years, Mrs. Brittain can check up on the society editor to see if her gown was described correctly.

Recalling 50 years of married life, Dr. Brittain said, "We are not going to fib about never having had a quarrel. We have had misunderstandings; everyone does. But if we had not quarreled a little we would have led a very dull life."

As part of their anniversary Dr. and Mrs. Brittain went to a performance of "Gone With the Wind."

THREE OFFICIALS OUSTED IN CLAYTON

R. L. Dickson above their legal fees and without tax levy. The second count charged illegal granting to Sheriff Adamson of permission to receive a percentage of tax fi. fas, he collected.

Counts three and four, which were dismissed in all instances by the jury, alleged that the commission purchased illegally county materials and supplies from Horace Moore, said to be a cousin of Commissioner Moore. The fifth count charged purchase of supplies from Commissioner Moore himself.

In Tuesday's proceedings against Commissioner Lee, Horace Moore, one of the state's witnesses, was fined $200 and sentenced to 20 days in jail by Judge Davis, who held him in contempt of court. Moore, Davis said, evaded the truth in his testimony as to his exact relationship to H. Grady Moore. This sentence was rescinded yesterday after Horace Moore apologized "for offending the court" and said his "object was to answer the questions directly and not to evade the truth."

The resignation which Commissioner Wallis gave to Solicitor Leathers was filed with the clerk of court and became effective immediately.

Counsel Agree.
Agreement of counsel between Solicitor Leathers and Commissioner Moore's attorneys—W. E. Armistead, E. S. Kemp and H. A. Allen—stated that while appeal on the demurrer was pending, which appeal would be filed within 20 days, he would "not attend any meetings of the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Clayton county, and that he will not participate in county affairs or give directions to others who are handling county affairs." Moore further agreed that if the supreme court or court of appeals holds valid any count of the indictment, he will resign immediately as a commissioner.

Scheduled for the third Monday in February is a civil suit seeking ouster proceedings against Commissioner Moore. Filed first for the August term of the Clayton court by John J. Poole, representing 26 citizens, the ouster suit was continued upon Moore's plea of sickness. Poole acted as associate counsel with Solicitor Leathers in prosecuting the four commissioners who faced trial.

Trials of the commissioners ran the Clayton county session of the Stone Mountain circuit into four weeks, the longest single term of that circuit in the last 10 years. It necessitated two postponements of a concurrent session of the DeKalb county grand jury and superior court, now scheduled for some time in January or February.

309 Inmates Will Go to Tattall Farm.

A building under construction at Tattall State Prison Farm, near Reidsville, soon will house the 309 women prisoners now in the women's prison at Milledgeville, it was announced yesterday by the penal board office.

In the absence of Board Chairman Grover Byars, details were lacking, but it was believed the old women's prison buildings would be used for expansion of the Boys' Training school, also located at Milledgeville.

NLRB PARTIALITY CHARGED BY GREEN

House Probers' Evidence Shows Favoritism for CIO, He Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today that evidence already produced by the house committee investigating the Labor Relations Board has been partial to CIO. Green volunteered the statement in discussing with newsmen a conference he had held with Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel. The two men discussed A. F. of L. witnesses who subsequently will testify. The committee recessed yesterday for the holidays. The work of the investigators also was praised by the employment relations committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, in making public recommendations for amending the labor relations act. The NAM group, asserting that the act and its administration by the board are "a menace to the national welfare," said the work of the house committee "is definitely encouraging."

Nevertheless, somebody broke in, took a quantity of tools and stamped envelopes, battered the dial from the safe and slammed the door.

Now nobody can open it. Throughout petroleum history, 20 per cent of all wells drilled for oil have remained "dry holes."

MR. R. IS JOBLESS BECAUSE OF INJURY

wreck left behind it has never gotten Mr. R. down. Of course, he is dependent because he is unable to work, but he is still full of life and still anxious for the future. He realized at once what being crippled meant and what he has to do.

If Atlantans will only provide this family with $31 a month for a while, Mr. R. is going to study an occupation which will pay him a living wage, but will not require him to walk about while he works. His shoulders and arms are strong and he is capable of performing skilled work with his hands. He only lacks knowing how.

Thirty-one "balance wheel" dollars would mean so much to Mr. R. and his wife and son. They are the difference between his being listed as an "unemployable" on Fulton county relief rolls and being known to his neighbors as a skilled but crippled workman. Won't you help him win this fight?

SECURITY ASSURED FOR FOUR FAMILIES

are worthy of your help, Atlantans, and every cent you send them will go to help them. There is no "overhead" for the Ten Opportunities fund.

The Opportunity families in Atlanta have not been taken care of yet, though. There are many, many of them who are in great distress, poor, and battling with all their ability not to go under. Won't you help them next year by giving a little before Christmas dawns?

Small Donations Help
You'll have the same good feeling that the persons who are helping Opportunities Nos. 4, 10, 12 and 16 are having if you give, because small donations mount up enough every year to "adopt" several families.

If you don't believe a little adds up to a lot, then look at what the workers at the Southern Freight Tariff Bureau, in the 101 Marietta Street building, are doing for 18-year-old Joan, Opportunity No. 12. Each worker has pledged a nickel—only five cents—a week, and that will amount to the $20 a month this homeless girl needs to train herself for work and get a job.

The Constitution employees and officials, including Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher, are taking two families under their wing for the year. They are assisting the G. family, Opportunity No. 4, of a chance by giving it $30 a month.

P. Family "Adopted."
They also are solving two special problems for the P. family, Opportunity No. 15, by adopting this group even before its story appeared in the newspaper.

The P. family is barely self-supporting now, but it could get along without outside help except for two things—Mrs. P. needs a new artificial leg and her 11-year-old son, John, needs special treatment for his eyes and to be fitted with glasses. It will take $175 to make this one of the happiest families in the city Christmas morning and that is what The Constitution "family" is doing for this group.

John P. is losing out in school because he can't see well. He's bright enough, but isn't learning because his eyes won't let him read. The doctors report treatment over a period of weeks, and glasses will solve his problem and enable him to make excellent marks in his classes.

Leg 20 Years Old.
Mrs. P. was in an accident when she was a girl and one leg had to be cut off between the knee and hip. That was 20 years ago. But she is still having to use the same dilapidated, heavy artificial limb she got then. It is more a hindrance than a help now, because it doesn't fit. She'll get a new leg for Christmas and John will get a new pair of eyes.

The generous woman "adopted" poor, distraught Marie, the unmarried mother, who is Opportunity No. 10. This benefactor has given anonymously the $20 a month Marie has to have to support herself and her baby son while she readjusts her life and builds herself into a worthwhile woman. Marie can and will become a credit to her community.

The Constitution thanks the anonymous giver and the workers at the Southern Freight Tariff Bureau, who have for years in the past sympathized with and helped the city's neediest but most deserving families.

Community Assets
This reporter thanks the many Constitution workers who co-operated and voluntarily gave to help Opportunities Nos. 4 and 16. The stories of Opportunity No. 17 and other Opportunity families will appear in The Constitution tomorrow. Watch for them and contribute what you can. Your money could not be spent better than in helping hard-pressed families to keep off the public relief rolls.

A self-supporting family is a community asset. One on the relief rolls is a public liability! Do your part this Christmas in helping many worthy families off relief as possible. Send a dime or a dollar to H. H. Trotti.

YOUTH, 17, CONFESSES SLAYING IN CEMETERY

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Dec. 20.—(AP)—District Attorney Connor Hansen announced today that Gerald Custad, 17, had confessed slaying Marshal Brenden, Eau Claire service station operator, in a cemetery here December 8. Hansen immediately issued a warrant charging the youth with first-degree murder.

The district attorney said the boy related that he and a girl companion, whose name the youth refused to tell, had hidden in the back of Brenden's automobile with the intention of robbing the 39-year-old man, that Gustad had slugged Brenden, shot him accidentally and then in panic fired a second bullet into his head.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 21, 1939.

David Halts Goliath

There now has been sufficient time to form a clear picture of the Russo-Finnish warfare. It still is disheartening from the long-range viewpoint, but at the same time there are many hopeful aspects, not the least of which is a world realization of the true facade of Communism, 1939 variety.

It is an axiom among military men that the outcome of a major battle can seldom be determined before 10 days of fighting have passed. While it is the exception that casts the die, nevertheless it may be said a major military reverse has been handed the Red armies on the Karelian isthmus. On this field, the land structure has made it impossible for the Soviets to counterpose an overwhelming force against the better-trained, better-equipped Finns.

To the north, the Red army has been able to smash into the wasp-wasp of Finland and has penetrated approximately half-way across toward the Gulf of Bothnia and the Swedish border. But here again the position of the Red army is not as good as might appear on the surface. The advance has been made by two units progressing along roads 65 miles apart, with lines of supply growing daily more tenuous. A third column has been attempting to skirt Lake Ladoga to either turn the flank of the Mannerheim line or strike it in the rear. From press dispatches—of trained American correspondents—this column has met a major reverse and from past experience with Russian troops, it may safely be said that, if the dispatches are true, and there is no reason to doubt them, they will continue to retreat in disorder and may be contained by a relatively small force under the winter conditions that now holds sway.

Which gives the Finns, with all the advantage of interior lines and unusual winter mobility, an opportunity to cut the Russian spearheads through the central portion. To the far north the picture is more jumbled because of the lack of communications. It would appear, however, that a small Finnish force has retreated slowly before the Red army and has left the region devastated. This Soviet force, however, is dependent upon the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, of which more later.

On the whole, the defenders of the little republic are in good position and good condition. Morale is excellent and initial victory has added to the confidence both of the commanders and the individual soldier.

Several things, however, appear grave. A greater proportion of automatic arms is needed if the smaller forces are to withstand the greater mass firepower of the Russian army. A great and steady flow of ammunition must somehow be provided by other nations as the stock of Finnish supplies runs low. More airplanes are necessary now. Not tomorrow, but now.

This latter need, if supplied, may prove the turning point of the war, even at this early day. For three of the major columns of the Red army are dependent upon a lone, single-tracked rail line winding around Lake Ladoga from Leningrad northward to Murmansk. If it can be smashed and kept smashed the Red army will be placed in a disastrous position. There are reports that 12 miles of the trackage has been destroyed in a single raid, but knowledge of the Finnish airforce makes dubious the chance that continued and effective raids can be maintained.

In the spring the story may be different. Finland's only chance then will be a steady flow of supplies from the nations of western civilization and, more than that, men. Well-equipped, able troops of other nations. If western civilization has not by then determined its course, then Finland and the Scandinavian countries are doomed. But, for the moment, David has contained Goliath, and, barring the inexplicable turns of fate, should be able to hold the lines for the winter.

In the Carolinas, an inventor compounds a paint which makes objects invisible at 100 feet. This may clear up the mystery of the little man who wasn't there.

In the Nazi menu that includes spinach pudding with horseradish sauce and sauerkraut pie, we presume the parsnip would figure as confectionery.

Airplane Motor Production

Army and navy men long have been worried by the specter of an inadequate, as well as uncertain, output of airplane engines. This could have been a serious matter in case of a war emergency. Thanks, however, to foreign orders, this fear practically has been alleviated.

In East Hartford, Conn., for instance, one plant has reached an output of 350 engines per month, double its average for 1938. The plant is in progress of expansion which, when completed next spring, will again double the output to 700 motors every 30 days.

This remarkable increase in production was made possible by an advance of some $2,000,000 capital by France on top of an order for $60,000,000 worth of engines. American investors were unwilling to plunge in on a war-time mushroom, but France, needing the engines in the expansion of an emergency air fleet, did not hesitate in putting up the necessary capital.

At Patterson, N. J., another engine plant is rapidly expanding with the assistance of French capital and orders. Present output of 400 engines a month will soon be doubled to 800. Another plant at Indianapolis is also swinging into mass production. By the middle of next summer, according to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, it is estimated the output of these plants, alone, will be close to 2,000 engines per month.

The potential industrial output of the United States is beyond comprehension. Britain and France, controlling the seas, have, in an astonishingly short time, been able to overcome such advantages as Germany possessed in plane production at the beginning of the war, less than four months ago.

But in tapping this great source of industrial supply the benefits also inured to this nation. Army and navy men need no longer lie awake nights wondering where airplane engines will come from to pull American planes through the air in case of an emergency.

Well, This Is Nice

Few recent items of news should bring greater approbation from the masculine portion of the citizenry than the heralded information that the "glamor girl" and the miss with "oomph" are definitely out of the public picture for the coming year.

In their place, if you please, the "personality" girl takes the spotlight. What is a "personality girl?" Fellows, she is a beautiful young creature—emphasis on the "young" if you please—who is vivacious, gay, sparkling, laughing. In short, human. Could anything be finer?

The end of the reign of the glamor girl will bring regret to few masculine hearts. She was a creature apparently designed to rebuff the essentially bashful male. A creature so aloof, so disdainful of ordinary mortals, that to even contemplate escorting her to a social affair was enough to chill the warmest blood. You felt, with a glamor girl as your companion, like a man in charge of a futuristic droid, so meticulously groomed, so far above the mundane sphere, so enameled in untouchable perfection, that she really required cellophane protection from all earthly contacts.

The very word "oomph" was enough to put any sane man on the defensive. It was advance warning that here was a baby equipped to devastate the males in squadrons and phalanxes.

But now, the personality girl. Her description is warm and alluring and individualistic. She sounds like a real person. A grand companion for the afternoon cocktail or the mid-night frolic. Someone to confide in and to pal with. In fact, she sounds eminently cuddle-some, kissable, conversational and understanding.

Hail, and a couple of grins, for the Personality Girl of 1940!

Only lately, a man in Massachusetts, thrown down for war service in 1861 because he was too feeble, has been complaining of feeling it.

A late communique from the Moscow factory has the Reds "advancing from three to five miles in all directions." Probably struck one of those buried mines.

Bread cast upon the waters will come back after many days with a raisin in it and called Empress Pudding.

The highest court rules only that wire-tapping is illegal. It doesn't actually hold the rural party line is unconstitutional.

Editorial of the Day

THE VACANT CHAIR.

(From the Dallas Morning Star.)

Russian absence from the called meeting of the League of Nations assembly at Geneva, the curt Molotov refusal to comply with the league's demand for cessation of hostilities in Finland and negotiation for a peaceful settlement, indicate, of course, that Stalin will follow Hitler and Mussolini out of the league. Whether any punitive action will be adopted by the members and if so, whether these will be effective, is highly problematical. Of chief interest in the Molotov reply is the Russian insistence that there is no war on Finland, only a friendly effort to assist the Finns to establish a people's government in reply to the request for help by the government of Otto Kuusinen at Terioki. If recognized in principle, the contention would mean that any nation could at any time upset an established government in another country by recognizing a minority claim and furnishing it troops to seize and hold power. Italy did this in Spain, Japan has done the same thing in China, but the enormity of the offense in each case is generally recognized abroad.

The Soviet does not concede the right of any other country to recognize a Russian Grand Duke in Paris as the popular choice for ruler of Russia and to invade Russia on his behalf.

Russia's absurd contention regarding Finland is not without numerous historic precedents. Italy, Japan, Germany and Russia have all turned the clock back to duplicate large-scale international brigandage. Of course, they can quote precedents, pitifully plentiful. Like Russia, they can all contend that their national honor is assailed when they are accused of murder, not recognized as philanthropists.

The world tried in 1919 to look forward instead of back. Most of us are still trying. The recognition of dark ages does not imply that we should create anew and live forever in a dark age.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

CONSEQUENCES YET TO COME WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. The Graf Spee incident has ended in a burst of pure dramatics, but its consequences are yet to come. Provision was carefully made at the recent Panama conference to meet just such problems as arose when the German commerce raider limped into Montevideo harbor. Hien American authorities are confident the incident has increased the determination of the entire hemisphere to make the Panama conference plans fully effective.

In the first place, the conference established an inter-American neutrality committee to serve as a clearing house for the hemisphere on all thorny questions. Unfortunately, the committee had not yet convened when the Germans demanded refuge of the Uruguayans until the shattered Spee could be repaired. The best that could be done was for all the other nations in the new hemisphere front to signify their approval and support when the Uruguayan government allowed the Spee 72 hours to lick its wounds.

The committee will be in full session at Rio about the new year, however. It is expected here that henceforth no more than 24 hours in neutral ports will be allowed to belligerent warships. Besides this decisive rule, committee action is also anticipated in support of the Uruguayans, whom the Germans are now bitterly blaming for the Spee's end.

HEMISPHERIC FOREIGN POLICY Thus, the hemispheric foreign policy, shaped and reinforced at the successive conferences of Montevideo, Lima and Panama, is becoming tangible and influential. This extraordinary spectacle, of the nations of two continents peacefully cooperating in the common interest, is one which does solid credit to the foresight and leadership of the President, his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, and Undersecretary Sumner Welles. In Welles' fertile mind the notion of a hemispheric foreign policy was first conceived; to the President and to Welles' chief must go much of the honor of the execution.

It will be recalled that the Buenos Aires conference in 1936 was the occasion of the first tentative effort at hemispheric unity. At Lima, by the shrewd negotiation of Hull, this announcement was strengthened to a unanimous declaration against outside encroachment. The declaration of Lima included a clause looking to inter-American consultation in time of danger. On the basis of this clause, the Panama conference was called as soon as war broke out, and resulted in the still stronger declaration of Panama.

Besides the inter-American neutrality committee which will sit at Rio, and the inter-American economic committee now sitting in Washington, Panama also produced the so-called "security zone," or 300-mile belt of water around the hemisphere, off which the conferring powers warned all belligerents. This zone was an idea of the President and Welles. At the time it was very badly explained, although the administration never proposed to patrol more than our own territorial waters, the impression got abroad that the navy had been obligated to keep watch over the coasts of all South America. Fearing repercussions in the fight to revise the neutrality act, Secretary Hull publicly played down the security zone, making it seem a plan in which desire had outrun capacity of execution.

TEXT FOR THESE TIMES But the security zone is remembered by its originators as if not the public. The Graf Spee was decoyed to its fate when it attacked the French Merchantman Formose off the Uruguayan coast. This was the second of two clear instances in which the security zone warning was ignored. The first occurred when the British freighter Stonegate was sunk farther to the north, probably also by the Spee.

These violations are now to be the subject of consultation among the powers which conferred at Panama. The move to consult was spontaneous throughout the Americas. Our State Department no longer had to take the lead. Out of the consultations, it is expected, will come a final warning to Germany. This zone was an idea of the President and Welles. At the time it was very badly explained, although the administration never proposed to patrol more than our own territorial waters, the impression got abroad that the navy had been obligated to keep watch over the coasts of all South America. Fearing repercussions in the fight to revise the neutrality act, Secretary Hull publicly played down the security zone, making it seem a plan in which desire had outrun capacity of execution.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

"God Rest Ye Merrie."

Let us, for today, take the first four words of that ancient Yuletide song for a text. "God Rest Ye Merrie."

It has always seemed to me that some purpose greater than that of calendar change brings Christmas so close to the beginning of the New Year. For Christmas-time is, among many other things, a state of mind that acts as a cleansing, a refreshing of the spirit, a wiping away of the taints and darknesses that have marred the souls during the preceding twelvemonth.

What is this restoration of Christmas giving but a spirit of thoughtfulness for others after we have, too often, allowed greed and selfishness to warp our characters? Without the reminder of Christmas would we ever remember that it is more blessed to give than to receive, that it is the privilege of the stronger ones to give a lift to those who stumble along life's way?

And Christmas is, of all seasons, the merry season of the year. It is a period devoted to happiness and joy and forgetfulness of those things which bring gloom and cloud the heart with sorrow.

Rest In Happiness.

There is, truly, rest for the troubled spirit in merriment. God truly brings rest and succor through the healing balm of His innocent merriment. "God Rest Ye Merrie."

This year, beyond most years, we need the soothing balm of Christmas joy to heal our troubled hearts and to comfort our perplexed minds. It has been such a trying year, this one of 1939.

There have, of course, been the usual worries of life. The struggle to pay debts and to make better and more advantageous the pathways of our families, of those we love.

There has been much worry about the condition of dear old Georgia, the state that means, to us, so much. We have seen school teachers go unpaid, school doors close and officials who should be co-operating to bring an end to such disgrace allow personal ambitions to rule and permit their attention while children go untaught.

There is, locally and nationally, the constant problem of those who hunger and lack the simple essentials of life. The jobless and the sad human beings who make up the living hell of the world. The problem of those who bring dark days to any sensitive soul.

There have been foolish and tragic quarrels between labor and management and between factions of organized labor. There has been horrifying crime and pathetic tragedy to mar the spirit of our joy.

And, from overseas, has come the menace of a growing shadow of reversion to the Dark Ages. Those ghastly insults upon the spirit of human freedom, the Nazis and the Communists, have flaunted their cruelties too long and now, brave men, stand at the breastwork of civilization and dedicate themselves to the ending of this fearsome plague upon the world.

Yet even that dedication, even though it restores faith in human courage and human decency, itself is awesome and forbidding in that gangsters, whether of the city alleys or the diplomatic halls, can be stopped only by force and force means suffering and death and horror for all the world.

Christmas

Must Be Merry.

That is why Christmas must be merry and why it must come just before the turning of a new page in the story of life. We must forget, in the joy of Christmas, the worries and the forebodings. We must cleanse our spirits of the taint of fear and despair, that has come during the dark hours now gone, and become again as little children in the joy that springs from the glad tidings of the Christmas story.

There is rest in merriment. The peace and rejuvenation for a new start in life. There is a pause wherein we can gather new strength to tackle the problems of a new year that begins just one week further down the road.

"God Rest Ye Merrie," and may nothing mar the happiness that should come to every living soul during the Christmas days now so near.

After the season of rest in merriment, may there come a year of greater hope and of less perplexity for the human heart to bear.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, December 21, 1914: "London, December 21.—(1:05 a. m.)—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says the allied fleet bombarded the interior forts of the Dardanelles Saturday."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, December 21, 1889: "The constant reader of the newspapers profits by his habit in more ways than one. Nine times out of 10 he is rejected as juryman in a criminal case."

War Propaganda.

Swiss who like to read German newspapers have an easy time of it compared to Germans who want to read Swiss newspapers.

The "Vaterland," of Lucerne, in a recent survey, found that out of approximately 400 newspapers published in Switzerland 397 are not permitted in Germany—even when sent to Swiss subscribers living in Germany.

Of the 400 leading German newspapers 397 are allowed to be circulated in Switzerland. Swiss police investigating foreign propaganda in the confederation recently discovered that one of Berlin's leading newspapers "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung," is being mailed free to hundreds of Swiss as a propaganda move.

Dig at Nature.

Nature created the interesting Timpanogos caves near American Forks, Utah, but man had to dig a couple of extra ones to make them fully accessible. Completion of the new tunnels for the use of sightseers has been announced by the national park service.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Will Take NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—I begin to hear that the story of the underworld career of Willie Bioff, the labor boss of the amusement industry, is a bore and that persistent pounding on the subject will make public sympathy for him. That is a chance that I will take, however, because I doubt that much of the public ever will feel pity or anything but loathing for a man convicted of the offense which was proved on Bioff in Chicago, where he was a habitual hoodlum and pander. I take the chance, moreover, because I am convinced that if public attention keeps after the officials now and yet to be concerned in this affair, not letting any of them neglect their job or sell out to criminals, one of the greatest and worst rackets that ever existed in this country will be broken up.

The six-month sentence that Bioff still owes in Chicago for pandering is just an incident. Far more significant is the fact that in Los Angeles the Central Labor Council of the American Federation of Labor has adopted a resolution criticizing the Chicago authorities for attempting to extradite Bioff and send him to jail, where he belongs.

Why do you suppose an organization purporting to represent working men and women would make an attempt by a public official, Tom Courtney, the Chicago county prosecutor, to enforce a court sentence on a convicted pander now risen to command of the labor side of an entire major industry?

More May Before this story is ended—unless some of the public officials concerned neglect their duty or accept bribes or yield to threats—not only Bioff but others in the labor racket and the movie industry may be shown up.

If Bioff got $100,000 from a big movie magnate, regardless of whether or not it was called a loan, which is what he does call it, how do you like that kind of labor representation under the protection of the Wagner act, and how does the Los Angeles Labor Council justify its solicitude for this convicted criminal? The Screen Actors Guild of Hollywood, a section of the great, all-embracing National Union of Performers, already has withdrawn from the Los Angeles Labor Council in protest against that body's resolution on behalf of Bioff.

And further developments—if the officials, both federal and state, in both California and Illinois, are closely watched and not allowed to sneak over any fast ones—might show why it was that the movie industry—that is to say, the employing side—liked to sit across the table from Bioff in the role of labor's man. The magnates never made any move to disclose the fact that that past was a matter of common knowledge in Los Angeles for years, and no magnate had anything to do with its revelation a few weeks ago. Even though Willie sometimes went through the motions of enacting wage increases for the "little fellows," the magnates had no wish or motive to get him out of there.

Not So Big Analysis of those

that they are bigger in effect on paper than in cash returns to the rank and file. And examination of the facts will show that Bioff's union, which includes the stagehands, has done more than all the other factors combined to destroy the speaking stage in the entire United States, and thus remove the greatest competitor of the movie industry.

Bioff's union performed this great service for the movie industry in a pretense of improving the lot of the stagehands in the theaters. What it did actually was to raise the wages of the stagehands so high that the legitimate stage could not operate. Thus, the very few stagehands got high wages, their field of employment was almost wiped out and vast numbers of actors were thrown out of jobs with them, and the movie industry got the benefit.

Undone By The arrogance of Arrogance. final undoing. The boys made their mistake last summer when they tried to muscle into the actors' unions and just take them over under the hoodlum leadership of Willie Bioff without even a pretense of a vote by the actors themselves.

Attempts have been made to cover up for Bioff and others in Los Angeles, and the resolution in his favor by the Los Angeles Central Labor Council assists in this attempt, whatever the actual motives of the council may have been. And there has been so much failure and evasion by public officials up to now that it must be assumed that the investigation and prosecution will be thorough only if the officials are kept in the glare of public scrutiny and suspicion constantly until the job is done.

ONE WORD MORE

(During Ralph McGill's absence from the office his column is being written by members of The Constitution news staff.)

By LEE ROSS.

SELZNICK ADMITS ERROR D. O. S. admitted to associates yesterday his opinion of the movie folks know David O. Selznick. And Selznick is the man sitting on top of the film industry today, now that the public has gotten a good look at his production of "Gone With the Wind."

After seeing the new Atlanta under the pressure of a world premiere last week, Selznick indicated in a wire to E. B. Coleman, who arranged the premiere festivities, that he thought the prologue to his picture was all wrong.

It starts "There was a land of cavaliers and cotton fields called the Old South . . ." and it ends " . . . Look for it only in books, for it is no more than a dream remembered, a civilization gone with the wind."

You have Mr. Selznick's word for it that the civilization of the Old South definitely is not gone—but exists even stronger today. Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh and the other stars of the picture received the most enthusiastic reception from Atlantans last week that movie people have ever received. But not once did the crowds stampede toward the actors. No one tried to snatch pieces of Mr. Gable's clothing for a souvenir.

And the "marvel of marvels" to Mr. Coleman was "I saw two policemen clear that massive crowd at Five Points so the parade could pass through."

To the movie people, used to the jamming, crushing, uncontrollable mobs found in other sections of the country, the New South became as dear to them as the memories they had garnered of the Old. It was the greatest premiere ever given a motion picture and the film officials frankly admit it couldn't have happened anywhere else in the world.

A Cincinnati paper, the morning after the premiere, declared in an eight-column streamer on page one, "Atlanta's Gone 'Nuts.'"

ALL GEORGIA WANTS TICKETS A week ago this morning all the shouting began "Scarlett!" in the person of Vivien Leigh returned to Peachtree street. Now, a week later, Atlanta is still in the midst of the "Gone With the Wind" fever, and the scramble for tickets has increased, not lessened.

To date, in addition to the $20,000 paid for the 2,031 $10 tickets to the premiere, Atlantans and Georgians have paid approximately $75,000 for tickets to the regular run and tickets are now selling in the fourth week.

The fourth week sale began yesterday and when Eddie Pentecost, manager of Loew's Grand, arrived at his office he was greeted by a stack of 2,000 ticket orders from people in Georgia towns. Laughingly, he remarked that so many orders had been received from Dalton and Cedartown he thought everyone in those towns must be coming en masse to "Gone With the Wind."

GETTING INTO HOTEL There were many interesting stories told by people who sought successfully and unsuccessfully to get into the Georgian Terrace hotel while the stars were residing there.

Miss Katherine Bleckley, clerk of the state supreme court, has an aunt who resides at the hotel and Friday afternoon she had a business appointment with her aunt, but the policeman on the door had strict orders to let no one in without a pass.

Miss Katherine was phoning desperately to the hotel manager, to her aunt and to friends in the hotel trying to get someone who could tell the policeman to let her in. The crowd which had gathered outside to see Gable and Miss Leigh as they returned from a party was pushing her about.

And who should step up behind her but Gable himself. Smiling and tipping his hat, he expressed his sympathy and wished her luck in quickly getting into the hotel.

SOUTH HAS TRADITIONS George Hoffman, the Metro-

Goldwyn-Mayer architect from New York who planned and supervised the erecting of Twelve Oaks as the Loew's theater front, got very much into the spirit of Atlanta and the south during his stay here.

"Only in the south," he said, "do any traditions still exist. Only in the south can any traditions worth clinging to be found. A motion picture audience in New York cheers when 'Dixie' is played. 'We need more celebrations like this one in this world than money. 'Gone With the Wind.' It brings everybody together on a common ground. It makes everybody work together, work for the common good—not work just for the individual."

"Nowhere but in the south could any celebration like this take place. I wish, for the good of the country, we could have one every year."

"southerners don't fully realize your heritage. You have the traditions of a fine and noble civilization, a people who have not forgotten there is more to be had in this world than mere money. 'I wish the whole United States would adopt the traditions of the south as the traditions of America.'"

Something Always Stops the Man Who Tries To Milk a Cow He Will Not Feed

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When delegates from the various Colonies had at last agreed upon a constitution for the United States, old Franklin prepared the manuscript for a speech, which he asked a Mr. Wilson to read.

In that immortal testament, clearly meant for posterity, he warned us that the new form of government could "only end in despotism, as other forms have done before it, when the people shall become so corrupted as to need despotic government, being incapable of better."

Perhaps he foresaw the danger so clearly apparent to Jefferson; the inherent weakness in democracy which enables the people to destroy the government and themselves by using the power of the ballot to loot the treasury.

A newspaper publisher recently asked a number of prominent people this question: "What, in your opinion, has corrupted our people and destroyed their characteristic self-reliant independence?" He might have found an answer in the fact that our people did not lose their self-reliance or pride of independence before 1930. If they have been "corrupted," it has been done within the last nine years.

We have many centuries of recorded experience to show that humans are corrupted—that is, their moral fibre and all their commendable qualities weakened—by soft security, by want of driving necessity, by the enjoyment of special and unmerited privileges. And experience shows as well that people will not

ADMIRAL STODDART DIES IN ENGLAND

Second in Command at 1914 Falkland Battle.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Admiral Archibald Peile Stoddart, second in command of the British squadron that smashed a German raiding force in the Battle of the Falkland islands December 8, 1914, died today at the age of 79.

He retired to his Cornwall home in 1918 as a vice admiral, and was given the rank of admiral in 1920.

Son and grandson of British admirals, he had a long career. In 1898 he was commander of the gunboat Thrush at the bombardment of the palace in Zanzibar.

White Collects Propaganda, Believes It in Main True

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.

Berlin (By Mail): I have just this minute come from Dr. Goebbels' minister of public enlightenment and propaganda, which is a few minutes' brisk walk from my hotel, with a nice load of German propaganda which I shall proceed to deliver to you while it is still hot and steaming. I do this because I think the facts are in the main true, and because it has been represented to me that I am still free to put a 10 per cent American interpretation on them provided I avoid lying, conditions which I gladly accept.

The load consists of pictures of corpses of German residents of the formerly Polish town of Bomberg, found by the German army when it entered the town.

Popular Theory.

Bomberg is a typical border town in Central Europe. Most of the people are Poles, but there is more than a smattering of Germans and other minorities, who have been getting along with each other in varying degrees of harmony and acrimony for the past thousand years.

The present regime here has popularized the theory that Germany is a superior racial stock and owe their first loyalty to the homeland no matter under what flag they were born or live, and this theory of superior racial nationality, while very flattering to Germans born in Central Europe and the Americas, has not gone over very well with the other citizens of these countries, some of whom can't see anything particularly superior about a German, and also have come to suspect their German neighbors (often without reason) of being spies against the country under whose flag they live.

Minority Took Heart.

So, now to the Polish city of Bomberg. The retreating Polish army marched out, leaving the city to the enemy, who were expected in a few hours or days. Then a very human thing happened. The German minority of Bomberg, which had been singing soft and low in the days just before the war and while the army was still in town, now began to take heart, and a number of them began promenading the streets of Bomberg with big, self-satisfied Nordic smiles on their faces, and if they also do not pass a few sardonic remarks to the Poles, I should be very much surprised.

So now another very human thing, but also an unpleasant one, happens. Remember that the Poles had long suspected those Polish citizens of German blood of disloyalty to Poland and the Poles were very bitter over the defeat of their army. In any event a Polish mob gathered in Bomberg and attacked these Germans and what they did to them is not pretty to think about, or to see in those propaganda ministerium photographs of corpses with their heads cracked open or their teeth smashed in or their eyes gouged out or their limbs hacked off. What a mob does is seldom pretty as I well remember after having seen what an American mob did in a similar race riot in Tulsa, Okla., in the early 1920s, with considerable less provocation than this Polish mob had.

I would not judge a people by the work of its mobs, or by what bands of cowards do when armies have departed, and I think an American mob or a French mob or a British mob or a German mob would have done about what that Polish mob did under similar circumstances.

But that can never come about in our country because Americans of German ancestry are loyal to their country's free democratic institutions, and also because it is well understood over here that we have an excellent navy.

So I think Dr. Goebbels wins his point here and I think his Polish atrocity photographs are genuine, and the victims were actually Germans and not Poles slaughtered by the Germans as has been ignorantly suggested by biased American writers who do not know conditions in Central Europe or the German doctrines of race superiority which under certain circumstances give a man a right to be a traitor to his country's flag provided always, however, that it is not the German flag.

In view of all this body of evidence I will personally vouch for the fact that Dr. Goebbels' photographs are genuine and not fakes, as were the Allied propaganda stories about Belgian babies with their hands hacked off or Canadian soldiers crucified on barn doors which played so important a part in getting America into the last war.

FACT-FINDERS CITE CHANGE FOR MARKET

Four Ways Pointed Out To Increase Net Income of Georgia Residents.

This is the second of a series of three discussions of means to improve Georgia's industrial situation, and greatly enhance the state's income. It is based upon a report on industry and commerce made to the Citizens' Fact-Finding Movement of Georgia by Dr. J. Edward Hedges and Harold G. Murphy, of the economics department of Emory University.

Four distinct ways to increase Georgia's net income—that is, the sums remaining in Georgians' pockets in any given period—are presented by the report on industry and commerce to the Citizens' Fact-Finding Movement. They are:

1. By initiating production or increasing output of those goods in which the people of Georgia have a cost advantage over other producers.

2. Increasing the quality of marketability of these goods which Georgians offer for sale.

3. Carrying production through more advanced stages.

4. Financing and managing Georgia enterprises.

Determine Markets.

Discussing methods to determine where Georgia has advantage in producing goods, the report declares:

"It is first necessary to determine the location and extent of the potential market for the product. If it is too small or too distant to be reached without prohibitive expense, no other advantage is worth being considered.

Going into the marketing of Georgia products, the report says: "A number of steps may be taken to increase the desirability or attractiveness of our goods to increase the price they will command."

Instance Cited.

"The story is told of a Georgia farmer who planted some sweet potatoes. When they were ready to harvest, he dug them, threw them into a cart, took them to market and had to sell them for scarcely enough to pay for his trip to town. Had he cleaned, sorted, graded and placed them in baskets, his time and effort would have been rewarded by the increased price he would have received."

"This story illustrates the point. Our goods must be properly sorted, graded, packaged and presented in the most attractive manner. The public should be informed about the existence and quality of our goods. To do this, advertising may be necessary. Educational or publicity campaigns may be required. But whatever it takes, we must do it, if our goods are to stand on an equal footing with those of other products."

(The third article in this series, giving the final recommendations for improving the industrial outlook of Georgia, and to increase the prosperity of Georgians, will be published soon.)

"The earth has grown old with its burden of care,
But at Christmas it always is young,
And the heart of the jewel burns
lustrous and fair,
And its soul, full of music, breaks forth on the air,
When the song of the angels is sung"

Phillips Brooks

As the first "song of the angels" broke on the air more than nineteen centuries ago, a great surge of hope swelled in the hearts of mankind. Down through nineteen hundred years and more men and women have lived and died in the consolation of that hope.

Well might the "song of the angels" sound forth over the world once more, for they sang of "Peace on earth—good will to men." It is in the forgetting of these words that "burdens of care" have come upon a troubled earth where lust and hate and greed have supplanted brotherly love.

May the "song of the angels" resound through your home bringing peace and happiness to you and those you love. Such is our Christmastime wish for you.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Friends of Ours

Looking through a stack of Christmas messages on my study table, I was struck with the quiet dignity and beauty of the frontispiece of a certain folder—picture of a fireplace with the glowing logs, the old clock on the mantle, and so forth. Opening the folder, I found this message, signed by Elizabeth and Henry Alford Porter, of Charlottesville, Virginia:

"Once upon a time! There never yet was a story destined to thrill its way into the heart of childhood and maturity alike but started with that enchanting phrase. Once upon a time something happened in the little town of Bethlehem that changed the world, in spite of appearances today."

"This is the magic season when sentiment reigns, when we abandon ourselves to our best emotions, when we become spontaneously childlike and gloriously impractical and recklessly unselfish."

"This is the magic season when great waves of good-will flow over the heart, when we think kindly thoughts of one another, and plan kindly deeds to one another, and when those who were separated by time or space or misunderstanding come once more to friendship."

"This is the magic season when we are conscious of the Eternal Love, and are very sure that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death—and that it is the almighty solvent that will one day cure all human ills."

"We ask this Yuletide Season may for you bring something of its magic light over all the year."

I enjoy all these Christmas messages—the very personal ones and the ones that they buy on the penny counters. Here, for example, is a very handsomely engraved card from Governor and Mrs. Albert Matthews of Ontario, Canada, and the next one to it is a penny card from a young man in a Georgia C. C. C. camp. I prize them equally. I have been interested to see the Christmas cards from foreign lands this time. So many friends who were here for the Baptist World Alliance have, sent cards. They mail them in time to have them here ahead of Christmas. Even war cannot stop the flow of kindly thoughts.

I asked the postman what he thought of all this extra Christmas mail. "I enjoy it," he said. "I feel like I am helping folks to do something that is very fine." And he went on his way in the cold wind, smiling.

Red Battleship Hit, But Not Sunk, Official Finn Announcement Says

HELSINKI, Dec. 20.—(UP)—The 23,256-ton Russian battleship Oktabrskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was hit by a shell from Finnish coastal batteries during a naval attack on the Karelian isthmus and damaged but not sunk, an official announcement said tonight.

The Exchange Telegraph agency reported in a dispatch from Helsinki last night that the battleship had been sunk. That report was denied then by the Finnish press. The battleship, built in 1911, was known as The Gangut when it was part of the Imperial Russian fleet.

U. S. Extends Moral Embargo

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The government extended its "moral embargo" today to withhold the means of producing high quality aviation gasoline from countries engaged in unprovoked aerial bombing or machine-gunning of civilians.

The countries were not named but were understood to be Russia and Japan, and possibly Germany as a result of the Polish campaign.

Spee Captain Adds 'P. S.' to Hitler's Scuttle Order

Captain Hans Langsdorff, who shared the fate of his scuttled battleship, The Graf Spee, by committing suicide yesterday, lies in state at Buenos Aires with two German flying officers standing guard at the bier. His cap and sword lie on his coffin and the swastika forms a back drape.

Captain of Scuttled Spee Kills Self While Interned

Skipper Bids Staff Farewell, Retires to Room and Fires Bullet Through Head; Sea Warrior Admired by Friend and Foe.

By HAROLD K. MILKS.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The commander of the scuttled German battleship Admiral Graf Spee, Captain Hans Langsdorff, today wrote a tragic epilogue to the war's greatest naval battle by committing suicide.

The 45-year-old commander, veteran of the World War and leader of numerous Nazi sea exploits, shot himself with a revolver in the naval arsenal where Argentina interned him when he arrived from Uruguay after destroying his prized battleship off Montevideo Sunday.

The pistol bullet entered the center of his forehead. Tonight his body lay in state at the Argentine naval arsenal.

"From the first moment he made up his mind to share the fate of his magnificent ship," said a German embassy announcement, declaring he had died "for the Fatherland."

Langsdorff, who won the admiration of friend and foe for his humanitarian treatment of his war prisoners, killed himself exactly a week after the Graf Spee engaged in a 14-hour running battle with three British cruisers off the South American coast.

Forced to seek refuge in Montevideo harbor, the commander on orders from Adolf Hitler blew up his ship rather than face internment or run the gauntlet of Allied warships off the coast.

Instead of going down with his ship "he postponed fulfillment of his design" until he had seen to the safety of more than 1,000 young seamen in his crew and had informed his superiors of the fate which had befallen the Graf Spee, the embassy communique said.

An aide found Langsdorff's lifeless body in his arsenal quarters at 8:30 a. m. (5:30 a. m. C. S. T.). Presumably the sea warrior used his own pistol.

Officials at the naval base explained that the Graf Spee officers were not requested to surrender their swords and pistols if they were wearing them when they arrived in Argentina, because the arms were considered personal adornments rather than belligerent weapons.

Preparing for the end, Langsdorff called all the officers of his staff about him last night and talked with them for three hours. Shortly after midnight he rose and made a circle of the room for a last handshake with each man.

Then he retired to his room, requesting that no one disturb him as he was fatigued by the week's events. Alone in his room he wrote a letter to the German ambassador explaining the reasons for his suicide. The letter has not been made public.

Germans said there was no doubt in the mind of any man at this conference that he was speaking to his commander for the last time.

Full honors due his rank will be accorded in a funeral service at the embassy tomorrow at 3 p. m. Burial will be in the German cemetery here.

Langsdorff was proud of the fact that there had been no loss of life aboard the British merchant vessels he had sunk.

One of his enemies in the war at sea had this to say of him: "There is no mercy from Langsdorff when he has fighting to do, but when he is not fighting he is a fine gentleman."

It was Captain Patrick Dove, captain of the tiny British tanker Africa Shell, who said it.

Short of stature and with a genial personality, Langsdorff maintained outward cheerfulness in the face of adversity until yesterday.

He was quick-tempered and irritable when an Associated Press correspondent, the last newspaperman to see him alive, asked him last night what he thought about the scuttling of the liner Columbus.

"This doesn't concern me," Langsdorff shot back. "I do not desire to talk further. I have talked so much I should now like to be quiet for the next three weeks."

LEPKE CONVICTED IN NARCOTICS PLOT

Accused Smuggler Faces Two Years in Prison and $10,000 Fine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter was convicted in Federal Court tonight of conspiracy to violate the narcotics laws as a top man in what the government called a $10,000,000 international smuggling syndicate.

Lepke, accused of "cutting himself in" on widespread operations of illicit narcotics dealers in many foreign ports, faces possible maximum penalties of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Federal Judge John C. Knox set sentencing for January 2. Nine other indictments are pending against him in connection with narcotics violations, conviction of which might bring 168 years in prison and fines of $180,000.

A co-defendant, Max Schmuckler, also was convicted, while a third, David Kardonick, was acquitted.

A decision by the committee which will select the site is expected within a few days. Other cities seeking the meeting are Memphis, Chattanooga, Asheville, and Winston-Salem.

German Ship, Trapped in U. S. Port
By British Cruiser, Held by Court

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 20.—(AP)—Spectacular hide-and-seek maneuvers between a British cruiser and a German freighter were interrupted today when the Nazi vessel was placed under attachment of United States district court.

A deputy marshal ordered the Hamburg-American Merchantman, the freighter Arauca, to remain in Port Everglades, in charge of First Officer Kurt Ludwig, until the $38,451 claim of a Galveston, Texas, sugar company is settled.

The cruiser Orion, which chased the Arauca to port and missed capturing her as a prize of war by about 15 minutes yesterday, hovered about the United States three-mile limit of territorial waters.

The British war vessel made no move toward giving up the vigil, even though Washington sources officially confirmed authority for the German vessel to remain in port as long as she likes, because of her status as a harmless merchantman.

Not far from the Orion, the destroyer Philip from the United States navy neutrality patrol at Key West rode at anchor watching for any infraction of American peace rules.

Two officers and 15 sailors from the Philip searched the Arauca late this afternoon, presumably for evidence of equipment for refueling Nazi war vessels. The officers said they were reporting their report to Washington.

Capt. Frederick Stengler, who was not aboard the German ship when the attachment was served, had expressed fear the Arauca might be tied up for several years.

Nevertheless, port authorities revealed, Stengler inquired about the chance for a heavy fog, found along some parts of the coast, that might screen a flight toward the Fatherland.

He was told that this particular spot usually is free of fog.

RUSSIA PUSHES WAR ON FINLAND

heard along the entire Karelian front, where temperatures were at zero and below.

Today's battle was only a part of the intense aerial activity which has been carried out on this region, as well as in other parts of Finland, in recent days.

Summarizing the results of Russian air raids yesterday, which was described as the "most active day in the air since the start of the war," a Finnish communique said it was established definitely that 20 Soviet planes had been shot down.

200 Planes Reported. The communique said that "well over 200" enemy planes appeared over Finnish territory during yesterday's raids in which it declared "many civilians" were wounded. Reports in Helsinki indicated Russian aviation was as active today.

The aerial battle on the Karelian front today began when four Russian bombers, guarded by seven pursuit ships, soared over the Finnish lines shortly after 1 p. m. (5 a. m., Atlanta time) at an altitude of about 3,000 feet.

None of the planes was seen to fall, although one Russian and one Finnish ship slipped out of the battle and flew away at low altitudes.

Later, nine Russian planes were seen flying from the northeast, apparently returning from bombing raids on Rauma and other Finnish cities. Bursts of anti-aircraft fire exploded about the craft, but none was hit.

From Helsinki came reports that the Russian drive was stalled in the far north by blizzards and temperatures 25 degrees below zero. The Finns said they had withdrawn to Korvetjärvi, but mentioned no fighting.

While battles raged along Finland's eastern and southeastern frontiers, the nation moved to strengthen its defenses by calling to the colors all able-bodied men 40 years of age. All reservists under 40 already had been summoned.

(The call adds an estimated 15,000 men to the Finnish army, estimated by authoritative sources at 400,000 at the start of the war. Estimates have put the Russian forces attacking Finland as high as 1,500,000.)

The Finns said the positions remained unchanged, and asserted that the Russians had lost heavily in men and tanks.

Bomb Trawlers

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—French and British naval leaders met today to map new strategic measures as German war planes continued to harass the fishing fleet upon which England depends for a considerable portion of her food supplies.

As the officials conferred, the Aberdeen trawler Star of Scotland was towed into port with two of her crew dead as the result of machine gunning and bombing by German planes.

The Swedish steamer Mars, 1,449 tons, was sunk off the northeast coast by a mine and seven persons were missing. Six were rescued.

(Oslo dispatches said the Estonian steamer Uko was sunk in the North sea Tuesday by a German plane. The crew of 14 was rescued.)

(A ship of unidentified nationality was mined off The Netherlands coast.)

The 19,597-ton Cunard White Star liner Samaria, with many Americans aboard, which was forced to return to port for repairs, narrowly missed disastrous collision with a Canadian troopship, it was disclosed.

The admiralty said German aircraft had attacked 35 vessels, including two neutrals, in the last three days. Only three were naval vessels, it said.

The day's developments in the Russo-Finnish War: At Petsamo (1) and Salmijarvi (2) temperature as low as 25 below zero did much to halt the Soviet troops. At Suomusalmi (3), Tolvajarvi (4) and Aeglaejarvi (5) wave after wave of Red warplanes crossed into Finland to bomb all sections. In the Taipale sector, coast batteries continued hammering at the Russian fleet.

Rumania Doubles Oil to Germany

BUCHAREST, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Rumania tonight agreed to double her oil shipments to Germany. The government consented to a new trade agreement with the Reich after hard-fought negotiations which several times broke down and precipitated the fall of one Rumanian cabinet. The new pact calls for Rumania to send Germany 190,000 tons of oil monthly.

Turn of War Events Clouds
Hitler's Christmas Holiday

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

A pre-Christmas week, studded with disaster for Nazi Germany, and with ominous portents for her outlawed partner, Soviet Russia, throws its heavy shadow over the man upon whom the tragic events turn as a pivot, Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

He has gone, Berlin indicates, to take his Yuletide holiday at his mountain-top retreat, Berchtesgaden. Yet the unchallenged events of the week on the sea front will keep him grim company in his holiday-making.

By his order a hundred thousand tons or more of German shipping, including the powerful pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the Nazi luxury liner Columbus, once the boast of the German merchant marine, have been scuttled by German hands to save them from enemy seizure or the rusting idleness of internment in neutral ports. To cap that comes word that Captain Langsdorff of the Spee has ended his own life in Buenos Aires, as he ended that of his ship by Hitler's command.

Warfare at Sea

The tide seems to have turned heavily against Germany. Nazi raiders like the Spee, Nazi submarines, Nazi mines and Nazi aircraft have for 16 weeks taken heavy toll of Franco-British and neutral shipping; yet London reports British import and export totals rising. From France comes an official recapitulation that half a hundred Nazi U-boats have been sunk in the war. British submarines report they have scored heavily against Nazi surface warcraft.

In Finland, Germany's doubtful "friend," Soviet Russia, is meeting bitter resistance from her midge foe. Dwindled Russian military prestige and a mounting toll of German reverses at sea are affecting the diplomatic scene. Unquestionably, Franco-British statesmen are reaching out to take quick advantage of increasing doubts among European neutrals that Germany can successfully challenge Franco-British sea power and economic resources.

Dark Background.
Against this dark background the Fuehrer can console himself only with the disputed Nazi claims that German forces virtually destroyed a fleet of British air bombers over Helgoland Bight, and with Nazi air raids against British mine sweepers which could What tomorrow or next day might bring to lighten for Hitler the thoughts clouding his Christmas none can say. Yet the ghosts of German ships, dead by German hands, must haunt him. In the suicide of Captain Langsdorff of the Spee there is at least a hint of the scuttling of his ship.

What are Hitler's thoughts today, 16 weeks later, as he goes to celebrate another Christmas of his brief, absolute reign over a Nazi-dom that has come to grips in a death struggle with its Franco-British foes? Is he still so confident of victory, and is he still so sure that his deal with Moscow meant a new map of Europe and an even greater Reich? The world would give much to know.

$1,000 IS AWARDED IN MONOPOLY SUIT

Dalton Bedspread Maker Will Get Treble Value Under U. S. Law.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ROME, Ga., Dec. 21.—R. G. Bush, of Dalton, engaged in the manufacture of bedspreads, to-night was awarded $1,000 damages and $2,500 attorneys' fees by a federal court jury in a case involving charges of monopoly. Trial began early last week.

Under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, damage verdicts are awarded three-fold, making the amount granted Bush $3,000, court attaches said.

Conspiracy Is Charged.
The suit grew out of alleged conspiracy by a group of firms charged with forming a group or pool to monopolize, in interstate commerce, the manufacture, leasing, licensing use and selling of tufting machines known as Chenille Products.

Defendants were listed as H. F. Jones, trading as Highway Arts, of Calhoun; C. M. Jones, doing business as C. M. Jones & Company, of Calhoun; The Boyssell Company, of Gastonia, N. C.; B. J. Bandy, of Dalton; Polly Prentiss, Inc., of Sumter, S. C.; Eldridge Marking & Machine Company, of Sumter, S. C., and the Chenille Products Association, of Dalton.

Bush Reverses Procedure.
Charging this group with violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, Bush reversed the procedure of numerous recent bedspread suits. Twenty-five had been filed against manufacturers in northwest Georgia charging violations of patent rights.

Complainant Bush, however, charged the alleged pool conspired to fix prices for use of tufting machines at $50 above actual market price although, he charged, defendants owned no alleged patents.

Bush alleged he was damaged to the extent of $3,000 in 1938 and would suffer the same loss in 1939. He asked $18,000 damages, attorney's fee of $4,000 and court costs.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the U. S. District Court, presided.

Beekkeepers owe a good deal to these inventions: A successful movable frame hive (Langstroth, 1851), an artificial "comb foundation" (Mehring, 1857), and the extractor (Truschka, 1865).

FIRM WILL SET UP RETIREMENT PLAN

203 General Mills Employees Here Will Benefit.

A contributory retirement benefit system, applicable to the 7,200 employees and officers of General

Mills, Inc., will become effective January 1, it was announced yesterday by James J. Selva, southeastern division general manager.

The benefits, which will affect 203 employees in the divisional headquarters here, provide retirement allowances at 65, disability allowances after 10 years of service, special allowances to employees dismissed after 60 but before 65 years of age, death benefits and return of contributions to members leaving prior to retirement.

General Mills has deposited $3,300,000 with the Bankers Trust Company of New York, which will act as trustee of the system.

DETERMINED FLYER, 18, LEARNS THE HARD WAY

FAIRFIELD, Cal., Dec. 20.—(AP) Esther Sorenson, 18, is learning to fly the hard way.

Flying by instruments, she misjudged her location in dense fog, landed in a pasture, badly damaged the plane and jammed the doors so tightly she had to be pried out.

Only five days before she lost control and made a pancake landing which smashed the undercarriage.

HE SAW THAT RIVER, 11 MILES OFF, AT LAST NEWBURGH, Ind., Dec. 20.—(P) An old man walked out of the southern Indiana hills and began talking to a workman on the Ohio river dam here. "I've lived 11 miles from here for 75 years," he said, "and this is the first time I've ever seen the river. I should have come sooner." The workman said he was so amazed he forgot to ask the man's name.

FIRE RAZES CHURCH IN CLARKESVILLE

Edifice Dedicated Little Over Two Months Ago Burned.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. CLARKESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 20.—Clarkesville's Methodist church, dedicated a little more than two months ago, was destroyed late this afternoon by a fire originating in its basement, where women members were preparing a church supper for tonight.

The church, which replaced a structure burned April 3, 1938, was completed recently and dedicated by Bishop J. L. Decell October 13.

The loss was set at from $6,000 to $10,000. Insurance totaled $6,000.

Cornelia fire apparatus was called to aid Clarkesville firemen. The fire gave the new Clarkesville water system its first major test.

TWO HOMES BURNED IN M'DONOUGH

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. M'DONOUGH, Ga., Dec. 20.—The 16-room residence of Sheriff H. M. Amis and the cottage home of Mrs. Ida Alexander were destroyed by fire this afternoon.

Origin of the Alexander home fire was undetermined. It was believed sparks from that fire started the one which razed the sheriff's home.

A 1,000-gallon pumper was brought from Atlanta to help McDonough firemen battle the blaze, and to prevent spread of the flames to other homes.

SHUSHAN ATTORNEY ASKS AN ACQUITTAL

Judge Rules Today on Directed Verdict Plea.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20.—(P)—Motions for a directed verdict of acquittal and not guilty in the trial of A. L. Shushan and four others on mail fraud charges will be ruled upon tomorrow by Judge Wayne G. Borah.

Whether the case reaches the jury depends upon the decision of the judge, who took the motions under advisement when the defense rested today. If the motions are overruled the opposing attorneys will begin their arguments immediately.

Other defendants are H. W. Waguespack, former levee finance committee chairman; Robert J. Newman and Norvin Trent Harris Jr., investment brokers, and Henry J. Miller, public accountant.

Haul out your odds and ends; they'll bring you a profit through Constitution Want Ads.

F. A. SILCOX DIES OF HEART ATTACK; WAS FOREST CHIEF

Private Funeral Will Be Held in Virginia Tomorrow for Former Resident of Georgia.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Major Ferdinand A. Silcox, a native Georgian who has served as chief of the United States Forest Service since the beginning of the Roosevelt administration, died of a heart attack here today at his home in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from Washington.

Members of his family said he had been ill for about a week. He was 57 years old.

Appointed chief of the forest service of the Department of Agriculture in 1933, Major Silcox last September declined an offer of the post of undersecretary of the interior made vacant by naming of Harry Slatery as administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

As chief forester, Major Silcox favored orderly cutting of only such timber as could be replaced by current growth.

Labor Conciliator.
Major Silcox's career also included considerable experience as a labor conciliator. During the World War he was sent at the request of the Labor Department and the

Thief in Reverse Leaves a Ham For His Victim

MACON, Ga., Dec. 20.—(AP)—A burglar worked in reverse here last night.

Patrolman O. P. McDaniel notified headquarters today that someone entered his home last night.

But instead of taking anything away, the officer said the intruder left a freshly cured 18-pound ham.

"I'll not even make a complaint if he'll repeat," said O'Daniel.

United States Shipping Board to Seattle to settle labor problems in the shipyards. In 1917, as district forester when forest fires raged in the west and the I. W. W. was active, Major Silcox saved the day with his contract: "We pay transportation to the fire. We pay wages on the fire. We pay transportation from the fire if you put it out."

Born in Columbus, Ga., Major Silcox was graduated from the College of Charleston in 1903. He decided to cut his lot with the forest service and two years later was graduated from the Yale Forest School, established by Gifford Pinchot.

After the war he went to Chicago as director of industrial relations for the New York Employing Printers' Association. He gave up this post to return to the forestry field in charge of 500,000 acres of timber for Uncle Sam.

His wife, Mrs. Marie Thatcher Silcox, survives.

Private funeral services will be held Friday in Alexandria following which the body will be cremated in accordance with Silcox's wishes.

Secretary Wallace said "the death of Mr. Silcox is a blow to the whole American movement for conservation of human and natural resources. As this news reaches them, the legion of men and women at work on all the many fronts of this movement to save and use wisely our abundance of manpower and the physical resources feel a sense of personal loss, and of loss for the cause of developing a better American civilization. His work commemorated in a government organization of highest efficiency and esprit de corps."

In Exile Slaying

Fighter Already Has Admitted Killing Nazi Aide.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Ernest Kehler, accused as the slayer of Dr. Walter Engelberg, 42, first secretary of the German consulate, was questioned on his arrival from Toronto today as a suspect in the bludgeoning killing a year ago of Dr. Max Morgenstern, foreign exchange expert.

District attorney attaches said the 24-year-old Canadian-born boxer signed a 15-page confession in which he said he beat the consular official to death because he was infuriated by "improper behavior."

Detectives said Kehler had been questioned by members of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office last August in connection with the Morgenstern death but was released when he supplied an "apparently ironclad alibi."

Morgenstern, a political exile, was found dying in his apartment on Dec. 2, 1938, after a "terrific beating." He died two days later without regaining consciousness.

Professor Lucas Gets Church Post

Robert Schweim Is Elected Junior Warden.

Professor J. H. Lucas was appointed senior warden of the Church of Our Saviour at a recent meeting of the congregation. Robert Schweim was elected junior warden.

Re-elected to serve on the vestry were: J. F. Amend Jr., Harry S. Bartlett, H. V. Bown, Thomas T. Dunn, George L. Goss, J. H. Lucas, Val S. Painter, P. H. Sanders, William L. Slye. New members elected were George W. Lee, Robert Schweim, and J. Waddy White.

George L. Goss was appointed treasurer and W. L. Slye was made clerk of the vestry by Canon Charles F. Schilling, rector.

The vestry for 1939 entertained the congregation at a dinner honoring the three retiring vestrymen, Grover L. Magette, senior warden; L. L. Bowman, junior warden; and H. V. Christian.

Richard Gallogly's Appeal For Bail Refused in Texas

Must Stay in Jail Until Court Passes on Habeas Corpus Plea.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The court of criminal appeals, Texas, highest tribunal for criminal matters, today refused an application for bail for Richard Gray Gallogly, Georgia fugitive seeking temporary freedom pending final adjudication of his legal fight against extradition.

This means the former Oglethorpe College student, who pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in Georgia, must remain in a Dallas county jail until the high court passes finally upon his application.

Gallogly's attorneys had argued Texas statutes authorized bail in any habeas corpus action except in capital cases where proof was evident. Gallogly was serving a life sentence.

In an opinion by Presiding Justice F. L. Hawkins the court said the law in question contemplated release under bail only prior to felony convictions.

Judge Hawkins added judgments of conviction in sister states were entitled to the same faith and credit as must be awarded to judgments in Texas courts.

Presents Asked for 400 at Grady.

Atlantans yesterday were asked to aid in supplying Christmas presents for the more than 400 patients who will spend their Yule holiday in Grady hospital.

Those able to contribute are requested to send their gifts to Miss Mattie Jane Ridgeway, chief dietitian at the hospital, who will see that the presents are placed on breakfast trays Christmas morning.

Presents should be wrapped and marked as to whether they are for men, women, or children, Miss Ridgeway said.

Co-ed Shows Him Individualism, Little Nudism

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—"I'm not an individualist and neither are you," Prof. Albert Shepard last week told his New York University logic class, including pretty brunette Rhoda Shafter.

So, just to prove to him that she was an individualist, today Rhoda walked into class clad only in a fur coat and—a bathing suit.

"Hey," said Professor Shepard, "you can't do that—"

SPARK PLUG FIRM HIT BY FTC COMPLAINT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today that it had served a complaint against the Champion Spark Plug company, Toledo, Ohio, charging price discrimination and unfair resale agreements.

It was alleged that the company sold plugs to automobile manufacturers for use as original equipment in new cars at 6 cents or less a plug, while the price for plugs sold for replacement ranged from 23 cents to 31 cents each.

Cleveland Willcoxons Entertain Kinspeople on Christmas Day

By Sally Forth.

A VERY congenial group of kinspeople will assemble Christmas evening to dine together at the fourteenth street home of Jeanette and Cleveland Willcoxons. The same group foregathers every year with some of their relatives, and moving pictures are always made for their amusement in the years to come. It becomes the pleasure of Jeanette and Cleveland to be hosts at the 1939 Christmas party, and they are forming many plans for the entertainment of the family connection.

Dorothy and G. A. Taylor will motor here from Rome, and Mamie and Meriwether Hill will journey to Atlanta from Pensacola, Fla., to attend the enjoyable affair which brings relatives together for a royal good time. Dorothy and Mamie are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Raine, who se great store by Christmas, and always gave a festive Christmas party for their family and friends.

Nancy and Joe Raine; Edna and Billy Wardlaw, Ruth and John Raine, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wardlaw Sr. and Dave Collins will complete the list of guests dining with Jeanette and Cleveland at their Christmas celebration on December 25.

IN QUEST of his most important Christmas gift a popular Atlanta swain visited the perfume counter of a well-known department store here. Sally, who stood nearby, overheard him ask the saleslady for suggestions, whereupon the latter launched into a soul-stirring description of such romantic fragrances as Mais Oul, Temptation, Surrender, Moment Supreme and a number of other such spicy invitations to romance.

Still unable to make up his mind, the young man fingered a bottle on the counter, labeled "Anticipation." "How much is this one?" he asked.

"Anticipation?" That is twenty-five dollars," answered the beaming sales girl.

"Twenty-five dollars!" shouted the horrified customer. "Why, I wouldn't pay that much for realization!"

SALLY is indeed happy to relate that lovely Betty Haverty, a member of the senior class at North Fulton high school, has received one of the highest honors awarded by the school. She has been selected to act as the Madonna in the Christmas pageant, which takes place this evening in the school auditorium.

The selection of Betty to take the principal role was a unanimous choice by the members of the student body and the faculty. She was chosen because of her attractive and gracious personality and her scholastic average, which is among the highest.

Betty, who is the sub-debutante of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverty, possesses sparkling blue eyes and wavy brown hair. The bridesmaids were Misses Alice Tarver and Jane Suddeth. They were gowned alike in black moire skirts and white evening blouses. Their flowers were yellow rosebuds and narcissi.

The maid of honor was Miss Connydene Strout, sister of the bride. Her gown was of gold triple sheer crepe and her flowers were hibiscus roses and narcissi.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, W. S. Cox. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, J. D. Wootan Jr. She was gowned in a model of rose-colored triple sheer crepe. She carried a dainty lace handkerchief which was used by her mother at her own wedding, and a cascade bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

After their wedding trip, Mr. Brinsfield and his bride will reside in Decatur.

poems, each imparting the spirit of cheer, of happiness and uplift, but throughout many of the lines one can detect a slight note of sadness and sorrow, clothed in words of cheer and understanding. Mrs. Frost has many bits of literature to her credit and her latest little book, "Under the Blue," is her second one of verse, and is destined for success and popularity.

Mrs. Seydel Hostess To Miss McKenna

Highlighting the social calendar for Friday among members of the sub-deb set will be the luncheon at which Mrs. Paul Seydel will be hostess at a complimentary gesture to Miss Harriett McKenna, lovely school girl daughter of Mrs. Campbell McKenna. The party will take place at Mrs. Seydel's home on Spring street, and will be held at 1 o'clock in her study, which is known far and wide as Celebrity Den.

Luncheon will be served buffet style. Invited to meet the attractive honor guest are Misses Betty Haverty, Mary Jane Campbell, Dorothy Grove, Anne Owens and Jacquelin Thiesen.

Miss McKenna arrived Sunday from Simsbury, Conn., where she is a popular student at the Ethel Walker school.

Miss Strout Weds John W. Brinsfield

The marriage of Miss Marietta Strout and John W. Brinsfield was solemnized at the Stewart Avenue Methodist church on the evening of December 16. Rev. S. D. Cherry officiated.

The church was artistically decorated with ferns and white chrysanthemums. Lighted seven-branched candelabra formed an arch under which the bridal party stood. A musical program was rendered by Miss Martha Hinson, organist, and Mrs. Katherine Seng Spezza, of New York city, vocalist.

The ushers were Bill Purvine and Thomas Wootan. Groomsmen were Fuller Berry and Leonard King, uncle of the groom.

The bridesmaids were Misses Alice Tarver and Jane Suddeth. They were gowned alike in black moire skirts and white evening blouses. Their flowers were yellow rosebuds and narcissi.

College Park Club To Sponsor Lighting Of Christmas Tree

The lighting of the community Christmas tree, sponsored by the College Park Woman's Club, of which Mrs. T. H. Porch is president, will be at 6 o'clock December 22 at the central entrance to Cox College.

Mrs. Katherine Weathersby, Christmas tree chairman, carrying out her idea of several years ago, plans a beautiful living Christmas tree. Mrs. Hugh Couch, program chairman, has arranged an impressive program, featuring 100 school children, from the different schools in College Park, dressed in caroler's costumes.

First on the program will be three trumpeeters, heralding "Joy to the World." Following will be pupils from the Neeley school, singing "O Little Town of Bethlehem," pupils from S. R. Young, singing "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," the Richardson High School Club, singing "The First Noel," the George F. Longino children, singing Lutheran carol and "Jingle Bells." The program will close with the audience singing "Silent Night."

Duo of Lovely Belles Give Yuletide Party

Several hundred members of the younger social set gathered at the Ralph Black home on Oakdale road last evening for the open house given by Misses Margaretta Black and Margie Evans, two of the most attractive members of the young set.

Beautiful and colorful Christmas decorations were used throughout the home. In the dining room the table was centered with a Santa Claus surrounded by silver bells and red holly berries and green leaves. In the hallway of the home a large lighted tree, beautified with Christmas favors and symbols gave an added and effective holiday touch.

Misses Black and Evans were assisted in entertaining by Misses Ione Mercer, Jane Nolan, Patty Evans, Eleanor Kent and Jean Creeksmore. Miss Black was a dainty figure in her model of black satin worn with a corsage of gardenias, and Miss Evans wore a becoming black net and her flowers were also gardenias.

Miss Evans is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Evans, and is a member of the freshman class at Denison University in Granville, Ohio, and Miss Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters Black, and is a student at St. Catherine's school in Richmond, Va.

Christmas Musicales

Mrs. Paul E. Bryan will entertain a Christmas musicale at her home on Emory drive on Friday afternoon.

The following rhodians will take part: Martha Rhodes, Mitzi Spring, Nan Paxton, Sara Estes, Katharine Loemer, Frances Brannan, Dorothy Quillian, Lel Nixon, Adele Dieckmann, Paul Harris, Isabel Thomson, Mary Ben Erwin, and Edgar Forio Jr. Isabel Bryan will lead in singing Christmas carols.

Bennett Class Party

Mrs. Arthur McDonald entertained recently at her home in Hapeville honoring the Belle Bennett Class of the Methodist Church.

Decorations of Christmas evergreens, bright berries and harmonizing flowers, were effectively displayed. The hostess was assisted by Mesdames Felix Sibley and L. E. Tremain.

Attractive Newcomer to Atlanta

Lovely Mrs. Albert Edgar Patton is an attractive newcomer to Atlanta, and is residing at 1312 Briarcliff road. She is the former Miss Katherine Montague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Montague, socially prominent and influential citizens of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Patton were married recently at the East Terrace residence of Mr. and Mrs. Montague in Chattanooga, and their wedding was one of the most brilliant events of the past month. Mrs. Patton belongs to the Junior League and took leading part in the activities of the League in her native city. Mr. and Mrs. Patton are interesting acquisitions to the younger married contingent of Atlanta society, and Mr. Patton is the son of Albert N. Patton, well-known Atlanta.

Mrs. Parks Honored By Round Table

The Banister International Round Table was entertained recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Reams, 1785 Noble drive, at Christmas tea honoring the presiding judge of the round table, Mrs. Robert G. Parks, who was given a "towel" shower.

The following ambassadors were present: Mrs. H. R. Neathery, France; Mrs. George Schofield, China; Mrs. Paul Moeller, England; Mrs. W. Evans Bagley, India; Mrs. W. P. Dunn, Russia; Mrs. W. Paul Sewell, Italy; Mrs. E. A. Abernathy, Czechoslovakia; Mrs. Roy R. Kracke, Germany; Mrs. E. D. Shirey, Denmark; Mrs. Conway Carters, Poland; Mrs. S. R. Reams, Spain; Mrs. Nicholas Watkins, U. S. A.

The national supervisor and organizer of the round table, Mrs. Myrtle Banister, was a guest. The round table is one of the many 100 per cent groups affiliated with the Dixie Delphin Conclave.

For Miss Ivey

Miss Mary Price entertained at a dinner last evening for Miss Harriett Ivey, whose marriage to Ralph C. Marker, Jr., of Durham, N. C., and New York, takes place on Saturday.

Present were Misses Harriett Ivey, Mary Jean Ivey, Mary Ann Nolan, Catherine McClellan, Mesdames Walter Pope, Lehman Brantley and Charlie Girtman.

Student Nurses' Party

The student nurses at Emory University Hospital will entertain this evening at their annual open house at Florence Candler Harris Memorial Hall on Clifton road.

Guests on this occasion will include the doctors comprising the hospital staff and their wives and dates, members of the Hospital Training School alumni and the nursing staff.

Accountants' Dinner

Members of the Atlanta Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, held their annual dinner-dance at the Rainbow Roof, Ansley hotel, recently. One of the main features of the evening was the birthday celebration of three of the members, W. J. Carter, G. M. Harold and J. J. Doran.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dinsmore will observe open house for their friends at 986 Eulalia road, N. E., December 31, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Miss Smith Marries Wiley McGinty Jr.

Miss Elisabeth Jordan Smith became the bride of Wiley Patterson McGinty Jr. at a ceremony solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Kirkwood Baptist church.

Dr. K. O. White officiated and Miss Nell Thurmond, pianist, and Jack Coddling, soloist, rendered music before and during the ceremony.

Vows were spoken before an altar banked with palms and beautified with cathedral candles, bra holding burning tapers, and floor baskets containing white chrysanthemums. Family pews were designated with clusters of white chrysanthemums tied with white tulle.

Ushers were James Willis Smith Jr., brother of the bride; Raymond Little, George Ray Jr. and J. E. Murray.

Miss Mary Jane Burns was the bride's maid of honor, and only attendant. She was becomingly gowned in a model of pink tissue woolen, worn with a matching hat. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of talisman roses and blue delphinium.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, James Willis Smith, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Philip L. McGinty, who served as best man. Her radiant beauty was enhanced by her street length model of mystic blue chiffon velvet fashioned with bracelet sleeves and a bustle back. Her only ornament was a crystal necklace, and she carried a lace handkerchief which was brought from Brussels and loaned by Miss Anne Madden. Her bouquet was formed of white orchids and valley lilies.

The bride's mother wore navy crepe adorned with a shoulder spray of pink roses, and worn with matching accessories.

Mr. McGinty and his bride will reside at 301 Tenth street, N. E.

Miss Sarah Andrew Is Given Shower

Girls' Cotillion Club Entertains 'At Christmas Ball at Driving Club'

Among the most brilliant affairs of the Christmas holidays was the annual ball at which members of the Girls' Cotillion Club were hostesses last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. The elaborate ball assembled several hundred members of Atlanta society and a number of out-of-town holiday visitors.

The beautiful colonial ballroom of the club was decorated with the garlands of laurel roping and smiling. Large cellophane bows topped the columns and suspended underneath were colorful red lanterns fringed in red cellophane. At the base of the columns were effective green Christmas trees illuminated with red lights and scintillating ornaments.

At the far end of the ballroom four large Christmas trees flanked the fireplace, which was decorated with a mammoth Christmas wreath tied with red cellophane bows and lighted with burning red tapers.

Throughout the club, palms and ferns were massed effectively. The console table in the hallway was graced with an arrangement of red poinsettias.

During the evening members and their guests danced to the music of a popular out-of-town band which played beneath a bower of Christmas greenery interspersed with red poinsettias.

At midnight the officers and their escorts led the colorful cotillion figures, followed by the members and their dates. The officers included Miss Marianna Adair, president, with Sam Dorsey; Miss Isabel Boykin, vice president, escorted by Bobby Schwab; Miss Lydia Whitner, secretary, with Dave Black, and Miss Sarah Jenkins, treasurer, with Joe Hutchison.

During the figure the bevy of lovely girls carried quaint old-fashioned white paper parasols, the tops completely covered with paper petals.

Miss Adair chose for the occasion a handsome model of green chiffon designed with a bodice of iridescent sequins, and a full graceful skirt. She wore a shoulder bouquet of purple orchids.

Miss Boykin was gowned in white chiffon which featured a gold sequin girdle and a flared skirt. A shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume.

Miss Whitner's blond beauty was offset by her gown of cinnamon-colored net designed bouffant and featuring a tight-fitting bodice fashioned with a sweet heart neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her flowers were a spray of bronze orchids.

Miss Jenkins wore an exquisite gown of green taffeta featuring bands of cording forming tiers in the full graceful skirt. With this model she wore a dainty bouquet of purple-throated orchids.

Following the cotillion figure an elaborate buffet supper was served from the enclosed porch. The buffet tables, which extended the length of the porch, were centered with mounds of red poinsettias.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Tillman To Celebrate 50th Wedding Date

In the house at 1870 Murphy avenue, where they have resided for 42 years, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Tillman will entertain at an open house Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Pictured on the attractive invitations engraved in gold is a sketch of the hosts' home drawn by their grandson, McIntosh Burns. Mrs. Tillman is the former Miss Anna Killingsworth, of Augusta, and her marriage to Mr. Tillman took place on December 24, 1889, in Augusta.

The prominent Atlantans will receive their guests in the living room, which will be effectively decorated with urns containing artistic arrangements of gold lacquered holly and gilded seed pods. The mirror over the mantel will be gracefully draped with clusters of gilded grapes. The banquet table in the dining room will be overlaid with a dainty Madeira lace cloth centered with a gold epergne containing 50 talisman roses flanked on either side with gold candelabra holding gleaming white tapers.

Mrs. Tillman will receive her guests, becomingly gowned in azure blue crepe fashioned with long sleeves and a Queen Elizabeth collar. A shoulder spray of deep purple orchids will complete her costume.

Assisting in entertaining will be the daughters of the hosts, who will be gowned in white, Mesdames M. M. Burns, of Pelham; C. L. Douglas, Mark Johnson, of Fayette, Ala., and Miss Elizabeth Tillman.

Party Series Planned For Miss Haynie

Miss Martha Dunn entertained for Miss Rebecca Haynie, bride-elect of December 28 at a miscellaneous shower last evening at her home in Decatur.

Guests were Misses Peel Stapleton, Jane Rogers, Frances Durham, Mary Lois Riley, Camille Reynaud, Louise Sams, Marjorie Rathbourne, Helen Harralson, Betty Jean O'Brien, Willamina Durham, Mary Elizabeth Rose, Sue Rogers, Mesdames Furman Hines, Jay Jarrett, Lowry Whisenant, Frank Reeves, Calvin Rutland, and Tom Haynie.

Miss Haynie will be honored at a bridge party Friday evening by Mrs. Frank Reeves at her home on College avenue, who will be assisted by her mother, Mrs. Walter Reeves. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jarrett, brother and sister of the bride-elect, will honor Mrs. Haynie and her fiancé, Charles Shoe-

Pine Tree Club

The Pine Tree Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Harold W. Barber on Manor Ridge drive.

The committees gave their reports, after which Mrs. J. W. Speas and Mrs. Charles Marshall, members of the Rose Garden Club, gave an illustrated talk on the decoration of a Christmas tree.

Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Bieman Alexander Jr. and Mrs. Keith Quarterman.

Social Calendar Augmented Daily By Parties Honoring College Belles

The calendar of social events is augmented daily with interesting parties planned for members of the school and college set. Prominent among these affairs is the open house to be held in compliment to Miss Lucile Hartsfield on December 29 at the home of her father, Paul Hartsfield, on Andrews drive.

Invitations have been issued to 125 members of the school contingent to call between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock. Miss Julia Atkinson and Miss Doris Perryman will assist in entertaining.

Miss Hartsfield will be the guest of honor at the event and will wear an exquisite afternoon costume in her favorite shade of blue, and decorations will be in blue and white, with flowers in these colors centering the table in the dining room.

Miss Hartsfield arrives Friday from Danville, Va., where she is a student at Stratford Hall, to spend the holidays with her father. She will return to Danville in two weeks.

Another party planned for a popular school belle is that at which Miss Doris Perryman will entertain on December 26 in honor of Miss Mary Curtis, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Curtis. Miss Perryman will keep open house at her home on Peachtree Hills Avenue from 4 to 6 o'clock, and her mother, Mrs. H. L. Perryman, will assist in entertaining. Quantities of red roses will adorn the home for the occasion.

Miss Curtis attends Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C., having arrived yesterday to spend the holidays with her parents.

Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Cofer and Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Newberry will be hosts on Saturday at a tea-dance in compliment to a trio of popular school girls, including Misses Emma Sue Chandler, Myrtle Durham and Vivian Newberry. The affair will be given at the Druid Hills Golf Club and will assemble 200 members of the high school and college contingents between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock. Music will be furnished by a well-known orchestra.

Richardson Class To Sponsor Tree

Members of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson's Sunday school class will visit Battle Hill Sanatorium on Friday afternoon to give their annual Christmas tree to the children of this institution, this class having for a long number of years acted as Santa Claus to the children of this hospital.

The beautifully decorated tree will be laden with gifts for the little inmates and will be distributed by a gay, jovial Santa Claus, Hugh Howell, prominent Atlanta attorney.

Members of the class are requested to assemble at St. Mark church on Friday at 2 o'clock, where transportation will be provided to and from the sanatorium.

Mrs. Gussie B. Ivey has charge of the tree sponsored by the class.

Another Christmas project sponsored by this well-known Sunday school class is the box sent each year to the sanatorium for the mentally deficient at Milledgeville, containing gifts for 100 patients at this institution. The class will also provide clothes and provisions for 75 needy Atlanta families this Christmas.

Men Work According to Certain Pattern When They're in Love

A Soundly Bid Hand Plays Itself

By Harold Sharpsteen.

There is little excuse for the average bridge player bungling on 60 per cent of the deals played in contract. The vast majority of hands should be successfully manipulated without any unusual display of skill. Soundly bid hands practically play themselves.

The remaining 40 per cent represent more or less difficult contracts which require only careful play, knowing when to unblock or hold up, keeping the lead in the right hand, forcing discards and taking full advantage of inferences gained by opponents' bids, leads, plays and discards.

Only about 10 per cent of all deals require a good working knowledge of various types of end-plays, coups and squeezes and only about 10 per cent of the bridge players of the universe know anything about such plays. Ability to make opponents guess wrong is one of the characteristics of the more advanced contract player.

It is doubtful if 40 per cent of the world's players would defend the following hand as East did. Look it over and decide for yourself whether you belong with the 10 per centers, the 40 per centers or the rank and file of 60 per centers.

West led the heart queen against South's three-no-trump contract. South winning with the king. With seven sure diamond tricks and two spade tricks assuring South game, and with protection in all suits, there was no good excuse for South's not trying for extra tricks.

South led the spade 10 toward dummy's king-jack-6, and let it ride, when West played low. East won, not with the queen, but the ace.

Why? Because East knew South had but one more heart stopper and East hoped to aid South in misplacing the spade queen.

Winning the heart return with the ace, South felt heading into East's trap. What South would not? He led spades again and when West played low, finessed the dummy's jack, East winning with the queen.

East returned a heart and South was down three as West cashed four good heart tricks and the club ace.

A New Shirtwaister

By Barbara Bell.

If you take a woman's size, and want a tailored dress for everyday wear that's at once practical and youthful, you can't do better than to choose this new shirtwaister style (1885-B). The bias skirt has a charming swing to it. The fitting is all by means of simple darts—four at the waistline, front and back, two on each shoulder and five on the tops of the sleeves to make them smartly outstanding.

The neckline is becomingly finished with a narrow roll collar. Either all in one color or with contrasting collar and cuffs, this dress will be the stand-by of your day-time wardrobe—a pattern you'll make up time and again in materials for every season of the year. For right now, choose flannel, jersey, flat crepe or velveteen. Step-by-step sew chart with pattern.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1885-B is designed for sizes 32, 35, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 5-8 yard contrasting if desired.

Price of patterns, 15c. Price of Pattern Book, 15c. Do not send stamps. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

This Is a Personal Opinion Not a Diagnosis in General

By Dr. William Brady.

Years ago O' Bull-in-the-chin-shap Doc Brady hauled off and printed some plain talk about the wisdom of taking care of a constant or recurring condition which the subject readily assumes to be "piles." By taking care of it, I explained in words of as many syllables as possible, I meant consulting a physician who examines patients before he accepts the remedy-made diagnosis the patient offers.

One customer read that item over a few times, became alarmed, hurried to a specialist in rectal diseases (proctologist), had an examination, learned that his trouble was quite simple, not cancer at all. The customer was so mad about it that he threw me out on my ear. Oh, well, what's a customer more or less between friends?

Here is a personal communication from a distinguished proctologist. I quote it almost verbatim: As you and I well know three out of five adults have well advanced internal piles.

Actually that assertion rather astonished me, but coming from a specialist of wide experience it probably is a fact. Internal piles, some associated with other lesions, such as fissures, infected crypts, fistulae, all potential trouble makers. People consult doctors for thorough physical examinations which the average doctor is capable of doing very well but rarely does he look inside the rectum with a proctoscope. The gynecologists (specialists in diseases of women) have been stressing cervical erosions. . . . (A noted gynecologist of a famous hospital) states that "Every cervical erosion is a potential cancer." I believe that every chronic, erosive bleeding lesion involving the rectal ampulla (widened space at terminal end of rectal canal) is also a potential cancer. It is true that most of these lesions never develop malignancy (cancerous change) but when they do we generally get a history of previous irritation often preceded by polypoid degeneration.

Rhinologists (nose specialists) will attest that chronic irritation of the nasal mucosa is the cause of nasal polyps. Therefore, it is not unreasonable to assume that polyps of the rectum or cervix are also the result of chronic irritation.

The difference is that in rectum or cervix these polyps often terminate in malignancy (cancerous change) while in the nasal cavity that is rarely so.

Patients with nasal polyps seek help earlier because of the early discomfort and more profound symptoms, and hence an earlier diagnosis and correction.

I think we should use every means to educate the public, even to the point of frightening some people, so that these serious conditions may be detected early enough to enable us to do something while there still is some hope.

The proctologist's letter was inspired by the sad experience of a patient who had come for treatment of what purported to be piles, but on examination proved to be a cancer.

In the old days when surgery was the likely verdict the patient with piles received if he consulted a real doctor (one who makes his own diagnosis by his own examination) perhaps there was some excuse for hesitating. Today, when most rectal troubles are amenable to ambulatory treatment, comparatively painless office treatments which do not require any interruption of the patient's usual activities, it seems more foolish than ever before for any one with any kind of rectal trouble to put off a proper medical examination and intelligent treatment.

Now if any one chooses to resent this lesson, well, after all it takes all kinds of people to make a world.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hives. I had had hives over a period of three months. Called three physicians during that period, also consulted a "near-doctor," as you would call him (an advertising healer), all to no avail. Then I wrote to you for advice, began taking calcium and vitamin D as you recommended in your monograph on hives, and obtained immediate relief. Hives disappeared and never returned. (Mrs. C. R. S.)

Answer—Glad to send on request a monograph (treatise) on hives to any reader who provides stamped envelope bearing his address. Also, if you wish, instructions for High Calcium Diet, Calcium Feeding, Vitamins Everybody Needs.

Easy Loop Stitch

By Alice Brooks.

A. Place the baby over your shoulder before you feed him. Pat him until he belches, and remove him from the breast at least once during the feeding and pat him again when holding him on your shoulder. Repeat afterward and he should be relieved of the gas, which is caused by too fast feeding.

Q. Please give a recipe for chop suey in which rabbit is used.

A. Melt about 3 tablespoons of butter or other fat in a skillet. Add 2 cups of shredded onion and 1 cup of shredded green pepper and cook the mixture for a few minutes. Then add 2 or 3 cups of shredded, cooked rabbit meat and continue the cooking, stirring frequently, until the meat is slightly browned. Next add 2 cups of shredded celery and 2 cups of canned bean sprouts, and 2 cups of the broth in which the rabbit has simmered. Thicken the broth with 2 tablespoons flour or cornstarch, cover, cook gently for 10 minutes. Add 4 tablespoons of soy sauce. A cup of toasted almond halves added just before serving makes a special chop suey. Serve with boiled rice.

Even Dietitians Must Watch Their Weight

By Ida Jean Kain.

At a recent dinner in honor of Miss Mary I. Barber, president-elect of the American Dietetic Association, I purposely steered the conversation around to reducing diets—with the idea, of course, of picking up a few new tricks to pass along to you.

I hope you don't have the idea that dietitians only make out diets for others! They were as eager to talk about the half pound they lost the week before as you would be. Miss Barber had lost 10 pounds on a very novel diet—cornflakes and milk for breakfast and lunch, and a 500-calorie varied menu for dinner.

Some of the others had gone on 800-calorie diets. Now, ordinarily, I am skeptical when someone tells me that she cannot reduce on 1,000 calories a day—but I can't doubt the word of another dietitian!

And it is true that in some cases the calories must be cut to an extremely low level to reduce weight. Some people use food more economically than others. And anyone who has been more or less careful of her diet always has to restrict her calories more carefully to reduce at a satisfying rate. The reason is that after the calorie intake has been restricted over a period of time, the system economizes on fuel—it uses less!

On these 800-calorie diets, all the dietitians used vitamin concentrates to raise the vitamin intake to optimum. The majority favor one Vitamin A, B, C, G capsule daily to supplement the skeletal menu of protective foods.

If you can't seem to lose as rapidly as you think you should on the 1,000 calorie menus, go ahead and try the 800-calorie diet. But be sure that you do use the vitamin concentrates. On such restricted menus it is impossible to include enough of the protective foods and your only chance of getting the optimum is through use of concentrates.

But don't overlook the fact that it takes more will-power—about one-fourth more!—to stick to such a slim menu. Will-power has been described as the restraint to eat just one salted peanut! If you have it, you won't find it too hard to cut down to 800 calories. That goes for the dietitians, too! By the way, I didn't see any of the dietitian reducers skipping the fried chicken or dessert! We all had at least 1,000 calories in that one meal! It looks as though the dietitians have just as much trouble as you do in staying on their diets!

An 800-Calorie Slimming Menu. BREAKFAST—Calories 55 Orange juice, one-half glass 55 Poached egg on whole wheat toast 150 Coffee, clear 205

LUNCHEON—Broiled hamburger on bun—mustard, no butter 200 Chopped vegetable salad (Reduced's French Dr.) 25 Glass of skim milk 80 305

DINNER—White meat of chicken, 3 slices 100 String beans, 1 cup 30 Carrots, 3-4 cup, cubed 45 Butter, 1 level tsp. 30 Glass of skim milk 288 Total calories for day 798

Note: Supplement with one Vitamin A, B, C, G capsule. Several of the "Twenty-one Day Diet" menus are less than 1,000 calories—to make them even lovelier, leave off the desserts! Send for these menus and be sure to use the supplementary vitamin concentrates. Enclose a stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, with your request for the diet.

P. T. BARNUM SUCKER, TOO. P. T. Barnum, who coined the phrase, "There's a sucker born every minute," proved himself no exception. A Litchfield (Conn.) history showed the famous circusman sunk $10,000 in a phony copper mining enterprise.

Family Dislikes Son's Choice Of Girl

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: There are people who never have things right in this life and I know, because I am one of them. When I was very young I ran around with a lot of different boys and while I'll admit I drank and smoked with them I never did anything worse; never did anything that I would be ashamed of my future husband to know about. Then I met a boy who was all I had dreamed of and because he disapproved of my boy friends I gave them up and settled down to be the sort of girl he admired. What is it getting me?

His mother and sister dislike me and they are very strong with him. Of course, they don't want him to marry as he supports them. The sister once worked and could work again if she wanted to, but she finds it easier to let him carry her. Anyhow, they fill him full of tales about my goings on and they have just about convinced him that I am not the sort of girl he should marry. With a drinking father to ruin my childhood and now this trouble with the only boy I have ever loved I feel much older than 21. Unhappy years are long years and I have had them. Please give me some comfort.

BELLE.

Answer: Dear child, the boy friend whom you love so much doesn't love you. If he did love you he wouldn't let his family criticize you even though you admit your early record wasn't above criticism. If he loved you he would believe in your innocence and he wouldn't have off marriage because of his family's prejudice against you.

How do I know? I'll tell you: young or old, men work according to a certain pattern when they're in love. They are trusting and give benefit of doubt. They are impulsive and press their suits. They are intolerant of any criticism of their best girls. Mothers and sisters take second place (temporarily at least) and all their protests amount to nothing.

What sensible girl wants to marry a boy that doesn't love her and has given her ample proof he doesn't? Now come along like a sensible child: quit crying over one poor fish that got away. The sea is full of bigger, better ones and you should go fishing.

Grieving over disappointment doesn't help matters in this life. Crying over bad breaks doesn't create a good break.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Perhaps Santa Will Leave You a Gift for the Kitchen

A double boiler of quintuple uses.

By Sally Saver.

Good old St. Nicholas has a special pack of Christmas gifts for the home and kitchen, and if you're smart as I think you are, you will see that he leaves something from that pack for you. Every week, almost, brings to the market some new device or an improvement in an old one, and these devices are designed to make your job of housekeeping and cooking more a joy and less a burden. It's getting pretty late, but maybe not too late to let Santa know that a multiple-purpose double boiler, a broiler for the table, a roasting pan with a rack in it, or a pretty cooking utensil in aluminum or glass would be mighty acceptable to you. Perhaps you would be overjoyed with a new glass coffee maker, a new toaster, a wooden salad bowl, or many of the smaller gadgets: a slicer, a cake server, a food chopper, a set of waterproof covers to protect floors, a fruit juicer, or some gay kitchen towels.

Many cooking utensils nowadays are so attractive that the food can be served right on the table in the utensil in which it was cooked. I have in mind a griddle of this type which is just dandy for cooking and serving a mixed grill. You know at least a part of the fun of a mixed grill is its eye appeal, and of course you want to serve one always just as you arranged it for grilling.

There seems to be a trend toward vivid colors—bright reds and greens—in the kitchen. Tea towels with bright colored designs make attractive and much appreciated gifts at very small cost. Many small gadgets come with red or green handles to keep the color scheme intact.

MY DAY: Bewildered Children In the Toy Shops

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK—I did considerable walking yesterday. My last walk was from the cottage through the woods to the big house at about 5:30 in the afternoon. To my surprise, the moon was shining brightly and the stars were already out. It is only about two and a half miles from house to house, and the mysterious beauty of the woods, with the moonlight clouds coming through, made part of the walk through the woods seem all too short.

In the afternoon I went down to Poughkeepsie to buy one or two gifts which I had forgotten. I found myself in the elevator in one of our big department stores, going to Toyland with quite a group of children. While I was making my purchases, I watched with keen amusement one little girl of two or three, who was being carried by her father. She was gazing at the dolls, but she did not seem to have them, just looking seemed quite sufficient. I often think that when children go to the shops and are surrounded by so many toys, they are really more bewildered than interested.

We received a great deal of mail yesterday, which was not so cheerful on a holiday, but we are pretty well accustomed to the fact that mail is something from which we never can take a holiday. It was with deep regret yesterday that we heard of the death of Mr. Heywood Brown. As president of the American Newspaper Guild, he has done a great service for many newspaper people. Even though some people may not approve of everything for which the Guild stands, or of every action it has taken in the past few years, I think there is no one who will not agree that fundamentally the Guild has improved conditions for newspaper people as a whole.

This I feel sure, was the reason which made Mr. Brown unselfishly give much of his time to this work and many people will mourn him and feel a sense of personal loss in consequence. I have always felt that, as one of the best known columnists, he set us all a high standard in that he wrote what he really believed. No writing has any real value which is not the expression of genuine thought and feeling.

He was critical sometimes, but almost always there was something constructive about his criticism. None of us can resist being told our faults, for we know only too well how many new ideas and ideals which you can strive for, even though your own achievements are limited.

I knew Mr. Brown only slightly, but I had a deep respect and genuine affection for him, and I sympathize greatly for the loss which his death brings, not only to the public but to his wife and mother and the rest of the family.

Miss Richards Weds Mr. Seguire, Boston, At Chapel Ceremony

Of interest in the south and east was the marriage of Miss Vera Richards and Joseph Seguire, of Boston, formerly of Philadelphia, which took place yesterday at 11 o'clock in the Winship Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. William V. Gardner, the pastor, officiated in the presence of members of the families and a limited number of friends of the young couple. Prior to and during the ceremony a musical program was presented on the organ by Dr. Charles Sheldon.

Quantities of palms, ferns and southern smilax were arranged throughout to form the effective and beautiful decorations. Two pedestal baskets filled with white flowers graced each side of the altar and interspersed amid the greenery were cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers.

The bride couple were unadorned. The bride was beautifully gowned in a two-piece suit of blue, the dress being trimmed in colored beads. She wore a blue hat and her accessories were of blue. Completing her ensemble was a shoulder spray of orchids.

The bride's mother, Mrs. W. V. Sewell, of Tallapoosa, was gowned in rose crepe with black accessories and her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. J. A. Seguire, of Chicago, mother of the groom, was gowned in light blue with accessories of black. Her flowers were also orchids.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Sewell, of Tallapoosa, Ga., and has resided in Atlanta for some time at the Pershing Point apartments. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Seguire, of Chicago. He attended Temple University in Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Charter school in Philadelphia.

Mr. Seguire and his bride left for a wedding trip after which they will reside in Brookline, Massachusetts.

Tea Is Planned For Miss Escott.

Mrs. J. E. Escott will entertain at a tea today from 4 to 7 o'clock at her home on Washington street, College Park, complimenting her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Escott, bride of Saturday.

Silver and blue will be the color note used in the reception rooms. The dining room will be decorated in white and silver. The lace-covered tea table will have a centerpiece of white narcissi surrounded by silver candlesticks with white tapers. Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. B. B. Fuller and Mrs. G. H. Neal.

Assisting in entertaining will be Mesdames R. L. Brand Jr., J. B. Faulkner, H. E. Duren, John Routso and Brad Timms, Misses Dorothy and Charlotte Escott, Margaret Fulghum, Marie Bazemore, Ruth McElroy and Mary Emma Pullen. Three hundred guests have been invited.

Adair Park Club Elects Officers.

The Adair Park Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. C. H. Ellington for the annual Christmas luncheon.

Mrs. W. O. Petty was re-elected president and Mrs. C. D. Baldwin re-elected vice president. Elected to serve with them were Mrs. T. H. Fulton, treasurer; Mrs. E. B. Florence, recording secretary; and Mrs. C. B. Strickland, corresponding secretary. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. K. S. Bogman in January.

Golden Wedding.

Among interesting events of the Christmas holidays will be the golden wedding anniversary celebration at which Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cefalu will be hosts on Friday evening at their home on Rock Springs road.

The popular hosts will be assisted in entertaining by their sons and daughters, and friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Spends Christmas Holidays Here

Miss Anne McGonigal is pictured above leaving the Georgian Terrace on a fascinating and thrilling Christmas shopping expedition. She is enrolled at St. Catherine's school in Richmond, Va., and is spending the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Whitman McGonigal. Her visit here is proving the inspiration for several informal social affairs, as Miss McGonigal is among the popular and sought-after belles in the sub-deb contingent of society.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings Plan Annual Syllabub Party for Dec. 25

One of the most elaborate affairs of Christmas Day will be the annual syllabub party at which Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings will be hosts at their home on Clairmont Avenue in Decatur. Harking back to the delightful custom of their grandmothers, the popular couple assemble each year a host of friends at open house to partake of old-fashioned syllabub, the affair always featuring the gay Christmas calendar.

Receiving the guests with the hosts next Monday will be their lovely school girl daughter, Miss Mary Louise Hastings.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Hastings in entertaining will be Mesdames Grady Poole, M. H. Elder, Dempsey Brown, Eugene Brown, Francis Dwyer, Alex King Jr., L. L. McCullough, George Beattie, Joe Read, John Slaton Jr., George Suggs, A. A. Greene, James Henderson, William Pauley, Elbridge Freeborn and Stanley Hastings.

Pouring tea and coffee at the beautifully appointed tables will be Mrs. Granger Hansell and Mrs. Charles Winship.

Mr. Alston, Sister Will Give Parties

Added to the list of Yuletide social affairs will be the small dinner party to be given Saturday by Ott Alston Jr., who entertains at his home on Bellair drive, and the tea at which his sister, Miss Frances Alston, entertains on December 27.

Mr. Alston arrives this week from Boston, Mass., to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ott Alston, and will be one of the popular figures attending the various Christmas festivities.

Miss Alston's party will be in compliment to a trio of popular members of the younger set, Misses Dolly Hewlett, Mary Lewis and Olive Bell Davis, who are home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Dukes Honor Bridal Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dukes were hosts at a buffet supper last evening at their home on Forrest Way following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Willie Poage and J. Wilson Cash whose marriage will be an event of today.

Christmas decorations predominated throughout the house and the buffet table in the dining room was overlaid with a handsome lace cloth centered with a miniature Christmas tree illuminated with vari-colored lights. Flanking the central decoration were crystal candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Invited for the occasion were members of the wedding party, the immediate families and a few close friends of the couple.

PERSONALS

Big Six Coaches Give Missouri Tips on How To Defeat Tech

All in the Game

—by Jack Troy

Ferdinand had been missing for a couple of days. And the suspicion was felt in this department that someone had let the news leak out that he might be saddled—for the last time—and ridden through the plains of Texas to the Rose Bowl.

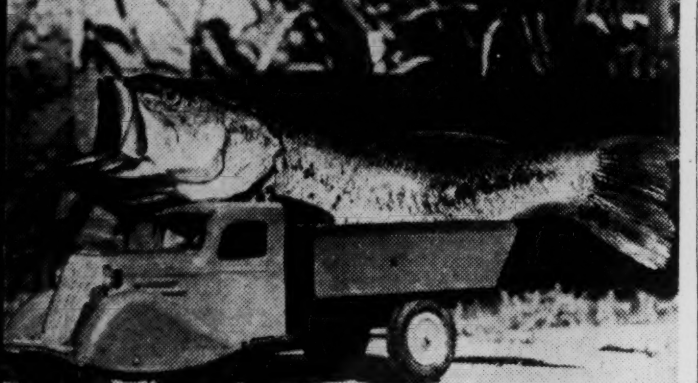

At any rate, he did a neat "fadeout" and it was only yesterday that word came from him.

"It long has been the habit of reporters to refuse to divulge the source of certain information," he postcarded, "and I insist on keeping my present whereabouts a secret. Don't be fooled by the postmark. I am not anywhere near there."

"I will admit that I heard some news which did not match my temperament and I decided that, after all, I was entitled to a few days of grace."

"This is not my real reason for writing, however, as you may judge by picture sent under separate cover."

"It long has been a pain to me to see those pictures of fishing you run. Those minnows! You can judge for yourself what effort was required to make this picture possible."

"I fully realize that I will be the envy of all my friends—you can count them in your spare time—when this picture is published, and I do wish I could reveal where this fishing paradise is."

"But you know how it is, Shorty; if I let them know, you'd have to be in on it. And that's not going to happen here."

"I caught this little fellow the other morning before breakfast. If I had had a little more time possibly I could have done better. I will be busy for the next day or two attempting to corral a whale for bait. If I don't get a whale, I'll settle for a couple of porpoise and use two hooks."

"These fish down here—don't you wish you knew?—go for the larger lures in a large way."

"I'll let you know in a day or two how things come out."

TIGERS DEPART TODAY FOR TILT IN MIAMI JAN. 1

Faurot Says He'll Confer With Alex Sunday, Exchange Information.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 20.—(AP) The boys who were yelling for the Missouri Tigers' pelt a month ago are yelling for Missouri now.

The Big Six family feud is forgotten. Like a family preparing Johnny for his first visit to the big city, conference coaches are chipping in with advice, information and everything but players for the squad that opposes Georgia Tech in Miami's Orange Bowl January 1.

Only two players on the championship Missouri team were chosen for the all-Big Six eleven, but now even the lowliest Tiger sub "belongs" to the entire midwest. From big Tom Stidham, of Oklahoma, author of the "Christmas can't pass sitting down" phrase, came ideas he picked up a year ago when his club was defeated by Tennessee in the same game.

EARLY ARRIVAL.
Vee Green, of Drake, offered the suggestion of an early arrival to acclimate the Tigers to the semitropical humidity. The Iowans played Miami University in mid-season.

Kansas and Oklahoma campus leaders started drives to raise funds to send the Missouri band, but that fell through.

Today, a big trunk was trundled down from the top floor of the Kappa Sigma house. It contained the finery the team's four Beau Brummels—the Orf twins, Paul Christman and Charles Moser—will display off the gridiron.

Coach Don Faurot made a last-minute switch for the final drill. Another attack rehearsal was scheduled, but the squad preened its aerial defense instead.

"The Tech team is relatively light and it relies to a great extent on trick plays and deceptive passes for its yardage. That is why we have been stressing the defense, while we have the freshmen to furnish us opposition," he explained.

TAKE 36 PLAYERS.
Thirty-six players were named for the Tigers' junket, which gets under way Thursday evening and ends on January 3, in time for the players to attend first classes after the Christmas holiday.

Selection of teams was announced after each completed its season, so they meet without benefit of scouting. Faurot said he and Bill Alexander, the Tech mentor, would confer in Miami Sunday, however, and exchange information.

A four-hour secret drill is scheduled for Birmingham, Ala., Friday, and the team will be hosts to newsmen and photographers in their only pre-game appearance in Miami Saturday.

The first 800 tickets allotted to Missouri were sold early this week and another batch of 600 was ordered.

Don Faurot Believed Considering New Position
COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 20.—(AP) The sudden departure today of Coach Don Faurot for an undisclosed destination only a day before his Missouri football team leaves for the Orange Bowl game Miami aroused reports he had been approached about a new coaching post.

Faurot left town just as the Missouri Athletic Committee met to discuss coaching personnel and salaries for next year.

Faurot's office said there was no information concerning his whereabouts, but he would return in time for tomorrow's departure.

The Daily Tribune said "friends of the Tiger mentor, who declined to be quoted, told that he had gone to another city to discuss his possible acceptance of another coaching job. Speculation immediately turned to Stanford and Rice, at both of which vacancies have developed in the position of head football coach within the last few days."

88-Year-Old Woman To See, Cheer Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20.—(AP)—If Californians are startled in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day by the Rebel yell from a little white-haired woman of 88—that'll be Mrs. Mary Bower cheering for the Tennessee Volunteers.

Mrs. Bower is going to accompany her son Ben and a party of friends to the coast by automobile for the football game.

Dove Shooting Opens In Northern Georgia

The opening of the dove season in Georgia's northern zone yesterday made shooting of these migratory birds lawful throughout the entire state for the first time this season.

Under a split shooting plan, dove hunting was permitted in the northern zone from September 15 through October 14, but no shooting was allowed thereafter in any section of the state until the southern zone opened November 20.

Director Charles Elliott of the wild life division reported a considerable decrease in the dove population.

GEORGIA SETTER WINS OPEN DERBY

Phelps' Homerun Harrigan Takes Puppy Stake.

SUMTER, S. C., Dec. 20.—Rumsons Farm's Loch, white and black setter dog, owned by Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, Ga., handled by George Crangle, Waynesboro, Ga., outran and outperformed the field of open derbies in the South Carolina club's trials and was easily the best in the stake for first honors.

Despite the abnormal heat and dryness, Loch, under these adverse conditions, especially for a setter, ran a ground heat that set the gallery agog and finished on a bevy which he handled to perfection. On his birds he reminded old-timers of the great setters of bygone days with his style and character on point. He ran in the first brace of the open derby Tuesday afternoon.

The remaining derbies had more favorable conditions after a nice rain early Wednesday morning, and the team will be hosts to newsmen and photographers in their only pre-game appearance in Miami Saturday.

DIXIE BEAUTY 2D.
Second went to Homerun Dixie Beauty, white and black pointer bitch, owned by Miss Claudia Phelps, of Aiken, S. C., handled by Charles Prickett, St. Matthews, S. C. Beauty was down in the same heat with Loch, first place winner.

Third was won by Miss Winnie Winkle, a pointer bitch, owned by Euclid Claussen, of Augusta, Ga., handled by Freddie Bevan, of Waynesboro, Ga. Winnie ran alone as the bye here Wednesday morning. A strong wind at the time made conditions rather unfavorable for the little bitch, but alone she covered the big country boldly and her diligence awarded her a bevy find of real merit. She found her birds in the edge of pines on a hillside and was perfectly steady to the shot.

Homerun Harrigan won the puppy stake with an outstanding race of sustained pace and range. Harrigan is a pointer belonging to Miss Claudia Phelps, Aiken, S. C. He has an imposing string of first-place wins this season, including the Pointer Club at Pinehurst, N. C., and Tennessee in Virginia.

DR. SAMS' WINNER.
Dr. Sams' Charlie was second. He is a pointer belonging to Dr. Sam Black, Spartanburg, S. C. This youngster has placed three times in three starts this season. Kilsyth Girl was third. She belongs to Gerald Livingston, of Quitman, Ga., and is a pointer bitch handled by Bobby Bevan, of Thomasville, N. C.

The all-age stake was started this afternoon. Three braces were run.

The top performances so far were turned in by Hillbright Peerless Equipoise, setter dog owned by M. G. Dudley, Greenville, S. C.

'Miss Virginia' Goes Home; Spirit Will Live

There is a depth of sadness in our building which goes beyond expression. "Miss Virginia" McGill has gone Home. The long months of suffering are ended now. "Miss Virginia" has met her Maker and there is an infinite feeling of loss among all of us.

Over the long months we all took it a lot harder than did "Miss Virginia," who will be a legend around our building forevermore. Especially those of us in sports know of the long odds which individuals face at certain times. "Miss Virginia" faced the longest odds of all. She did not have even that million-to-one chance.

And yet there was that determination, that iron will to beat the odds. We will always remember that. When we think things are impossible, we will think of "Miss Virginia," whose legend will grow brighter and stronger with the passing years.

All that was mortal of "Miss Virginia" was laid to provident rest in West View cemetery yesterday, but the spirit of a brave little girl who fought an immortal fight against impossible odds lives on.

—JACK TROY.

Rice Bids for Wolf Who Will Announce His Plans in January

TARHEEL COACH IN CONFERENCE WITH OFFICIALS

Carolina Leader Waits Confab With Fetzter Before Making Plans.

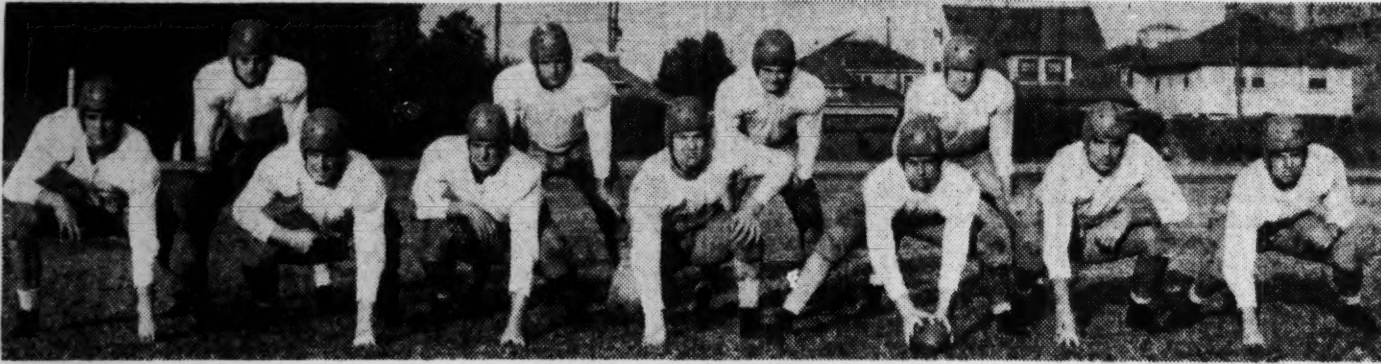

FORT WORTH, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Coach Raymond "Bear" Wolf declared here today he will have nothing to announce concerning the possibility of moving from North Carolina University to Rice Institute until January 1, and probably not until January 15.

Wolf stopped here en route from Houston, where he talked with Rice officials yesterday, to Graham, Texas, where he and his wife will spend Christmas with relatives. "I will leave Texas the day after Christmas," he said, "for the coaches' national meeting in Los Angeles. I expect to meet our athletic director, Robert A. Fetzter, there. I will have nothing to announce until I have talked matters over with him."

Wolf would not discuss matters brought up in the Tuesday conference.

BURLY TROJANS PREPARE FOR ROSE BOWL STRUGGLE

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.
The Breaks of the Game.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—A few years ago a friend of mine by the name of Charlie Howard picked up a horse by the name of Seabiscuit for $7,500. At that time no one knew that Charlie Howard was to have the swiftest tidal-wave breaks of luck, up and down, mostly up, of anyone in sport.

Seabiscuit ran that $7,500 for Mr. Howard up to something like $340,000. But think what it could have been, by only an inch or two? Well over half a million for an all-time record.

Nearly three years ago I saw Seabiscuit run in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. Swinging into the deep stretch, only a hundred yards from the wire, he had Rosemont beaten. It was here that Jockey Pollard forgot the whip as Rosemont came along with an unexpected surge. A nose-and-nose—$100,000 resting on an inch, one way or another.

Rosemont got the verdict. Howard was out $100,000.

The Next Start.

Another year slips by. The two favorites are Seabiscuit, carrying 130 pounds, and Stagehand, entered at 100, though on the weight for age scale Stagehand's weight should have been 106, according to Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York Racing Commission.

At the start of this race Seabiscuit is knocked to his knees just after the break from the barrier. A bit later on he becomes entangled in a jockey war, in which whips are lashed back and forth. He is far out. Then he settles down to running the fastest half-mile ever run in track history, according to Charles Strube, general manager of the Santa Anita track.

"For that half-mile he broke every known record," Strube tells me. Stagehand, a slow starter, but a grand finisher, then comes swinging into the stretch. Seabiscuit, giving away 30 pounds, comes winging with Sande's horse. Once again Seabiscuit is caught in a photofinish with $100,000 at stake.

Once again he finishes second—another $100,000 that Charlie Howard might have won—and didn't.

The Third Year.

Shortly after this Seabiscuit runs away from War Admiral, pride of the east. So Howard had his great little horse all set for his third shot at the $100,000 classic.

In the meanwhile Howard had picked up an Argentine colt from Bing Crosby and Lin Howard for another $7,500 outlay. The colt's name was Kajac, dated changed to Kayak II. He was just another colt at that time.

Before last year's running of the feature Santa Anita race Seabiscuit

TULANE HAS ONE SOUND TAILBACK FOR AGGIE GAME

Glass' Injury, Kellogg's Bad Ankle Leave Only Harry Hays.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20.—(AP) Injury of Bob Glass, Tulane's 195-pound halfback from Massillon, Ohio, may cause Coach Lowell Dawson to shift his Sugar Bowl plans drastically.

The sophomore whose 83-yard dash set up Tulane's winning touchdown against Louisiana State was tentatively slated to start against Texas A. and M., with Bob Kellogg going in after the Aggies had absorbed some of the Green Wave's attack.

Glass had to be carried from the field yesterday, however, after his leg was battered in scrimmage. He was taken to a hospital and late today physicians said he would have to remain several days, with full seriousness of his hurts not yet determined.

As Kellogg's ankle injury suffered in the L. S. U. game hasn't mended altogether, Harry Hays is left as the only tailback in starting condition. Kellogg should be ready for the New Year's Day game, but his ankle will still be somewhat tender, and if he is injured—Hays, who has not shown any "iron man" ability—would have to carry the burden alone.

A possible answer would be to shift Buddy Banker from right-half to left. He played the latter position the first half of last season, and as he has carried the ball more than any other Greenie this year, should be able to take care of the chores.

Red Cassibry, who alternates with Buddy at right half, would share duties either with St. John Smith, No. 3 man at that position, or with Lenny Sauer, who has been held out this season.

Sau is a sweet-running back, but it is unlikely Dawson would use him—unless the victory hung on one play.

Dawson has not said what he would do about the situation until full extent of Glass' injury is known, but he is more than likely to do some experimenting in scrimmages tomorrow and Saturday.

ALL IN THE GAME

Meanwhile, I don't wish you the best of anything and I suppose by now that feeling could be condensed.

"No regrets,"

"FERDINAND."

THE BEST CHARGING LINE.

Take it from George Gardner, ex-Georgia Tech player who will be head linesman in the Rose Bowl game, the best charging line he witnessed all season was Georgia Tech's.

Gardner saw the south's best in action, from the close-up vantage of an official, and so his opinion carries considerable weight.

And naturally Gardner is not biased, although being a former Tech player. He doesn't say that Georgia Tech is the best team he has seen, but he does award a posey to the forward wall. "When all the first-stringers are playing together, I don't imagine there are many lines in the country that have a harder charge," Gardner declares.

AN ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION.

Publicity from Miami's Orange Bowl creates a sort of false impression with regard to the Tech team. A recent dispatch declared that statistics show the Jackets to be strictly an offensive team.

It is difficult to understand how anyone can arrive at such a conclusion in light of the facts. For in stance, there was only one team on the schedule able to score as many as two touchdowns against Tech. That was Notre Dame.

All the rest were limited to one or less touchdowns—a formidable list of foes that included Duke, Alabama, Auburn, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Florida and Georgia.

Tech matched every team played, touchdown for touchdown, and lost two games by the total of four points. If that makes Tech strictly an offensive team, your Scotch uncle is a spendthrift and Ferdinand's a philanthropist.

ENVY OF HIS ASSOCIATES.

When Mr. Hugh Trotti walked into the banquet room at the Woman's Club in Decatur Tuesday night, coaches and members of the Decatur High football team greeted him as their "hoard of strategy." Mr. Trotti sits on the bench at all the games and very properly enjoys the envy of his associates.

GENTLEMEN—AND CHAMPIONS.

Boys' High's fine football team last night was acclaimed not only as city and state champions, but also as one of the finest group of young men ever to represent the school. So the Purples are thrice champions. A splendid banquet, over which Rufus Askew presided, closed out a most successful season. Really, the Purples are quadruple champions. They go pretty well where matters of turkey and trimmings are concerned. High tribute paid the excellent staff was well deserved.

Yellow Jacket Razzle-Dazzle Clicks in Scrimmage

ARTHUR IS STAR, MORNING DRILLS TO START TODAY

Wright Returns to Rough Work; Gibson Is Not Counted On.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY
Spectators at yesterday's Tech football practice had to take a second look to make sure the team they were watching wasn't the 1937 razzle-dazzle outfit of Sims, Konnenan, Jordan, Jones and company.

The Yellow Jacket trick stuff reached a new high as the varsity romped up and down the field against the stubborn Red Devil eleven in a hour and a half scrimmage. The ends were handling the ball like the Celtics and Johnny Bosch was pitching 'em over the line like Bobby Feller.

Yes, the Techs looked good yesterday. It may have been the sudden cold snap or the rapidly approaching date for leaving for Miami and the Orange Bowl, but something happened. In previous drills for Missouri, the Jackets had looked dull and listless, but yesterday they snapped through their chores as if someone had injected new life into each man.

SUBSTITUTES STAR
Play of several substitutes was especially pleasing. Most notable performance of the day was turned in by Harry Arthur, reserve flanker. Arthur is a fine defensive end but his weakness on pass reception has kept him from being used very much. However, he looked like Bill Jordan at his best yesterday, snagging anything that came his way with grace and ease.

The running of Ralph Plaster, Jack Nettles, Bobby Pair and Dapper Dick Bates was also outstanding. However, it was the hard charging and blocking of the line, led by Hawk Cavette and Butch Aderhold, which made it possible.

Tech's razzle-dazzle stuff worked with clockwork regularity. Laterals, reverses and everything else went for huge gains against the red-shirts. George Webb, in particular, looked good catching passes.

Jimmy Wright, star sophomore center, got back into rough work for the first time in several weeks and came through the test with flying colors. His return to the lineup adds a lot to the Tech defense.

MORNING DRILLS

Morning practice sessions will be inaugurated today. School has adjourned for the Christmas holidays so Coach Alex is calling practices at 10 o'clock for a couple of reasons. First, it is a lot warmer in the middle of the day and, secondly, he doesn't want the players staying in bed in the mornings.

Billy Gibson wasn't in uniform for the scrimmage and it is doubtful he will be of any use to the Jackets in the Orange Bowl game. Coaches aren't counting on it very strongly and are spending a lot of time grooming Pair for the wing-back job.

Earl Wheby, who has been out with the flu, will help. So will Nettles. But the majority of the duties will fall on the shoulders of Pair. Wheby is rapidly improving and should be able to resume work next week.

The team will work on offense this morning. The final Atlanta scrimmage is set for Friday and a light workout will conclude drills here Saturday morning. The team will leave that night.

Vols' 31 Scoring Plays Averaged 21.1 Yards

Tennessee Used Just 4.4 Plays Per Touchdown; 14 Players Scored for Neyland's Team.

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles dealing with accomplishments of Tennessee's 1939 football team. The second story, to be published Sunday, will discuss number of players used per game and will feature vital statistics concerning the Vols' passing game.

By BOB RULE,
Nashville Banner.
(Copyright, 1939)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20—Many times during the past two football seasons the question has been asked: How good are those Tennessee Vols?

Today, with the men of Neyland bidding their time until the day comes to depart for California and the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena, we present the first of two stories, which, we believe, will go a long way toward answering that query.

Last season Tennessee swept through 11 consecutive ball games without a defeat or a tie and with only 16 points scored by the opposition. This season the Vols added 10 more teams to the growing list, keeping their goal line uncrossed and seriously threatened only twice.

With 23 successive conquests behind them, a Rose Bowl bid in their pocket and a near-the-top national ranking, the only conclusion is that the vicious Vols are slightly terrific. Records, compiled from every conceivable angle, bear out that belief.

Elsewhere on this page is a table showing just how Tennessee went about winning 10 games in a row this season, scoring 212 points to exactly none for the opposition. If you'll study that table carefully the revelation will be truly astounding. For therein is revealed the real devastation of Tennessee's highly-gearred offensive attack.

The Vols have scored 31 touchdowns this season, and many of those scores came on long punts from scrimmage. Brutal downfield blocking is the answer, blocking that is timed to split-second precision.

Glance down the table and notice the length of the scoring plays. They range from one-yard power smashes over the top of the line to 72-yard excursions through broken fields.

The average length of Tennessee's 31 scoring plays, dear friends, is 21.1 yards. Read that again and repeat it to yourself! The more you read about it the more amazing it becomes.

The table also reveals another shocking item, and that's the average number of plays the Vols used to produce those 31 touchdowns. From the time they took possession of the ball on scoring drives until a back flashed across the double stripe, they used an average of only 4.4 plays. That's doing business in a hurry.

The average length of the Tennessee touchdown drive this season has been 47.4 yards, which means that they have carried the ball almost a mile while en route to the six-point zone. And by simple mathematics, we learn that the Vols, on scoring drives, have averaged just a fraction over 10 yards per clip.

Going into more detail, they have carried the ball 1,470 yards on touchdown sallys, using 137 plays to get there.

Tennessee has been toughest in the second quarter. The composite scores by quarters for the 10 games this year look this way:

1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
58	84	36	34	212

If you are familiar with Major Bob Neyland's coaching tactics, those figures are significant. In the tougher games, many times this season, Neyland has sent in his alleged "second" team at the end of the first period, and they have romped to immediate touchdowns. In fact, the second string often is referred to as the scoring team. Its job is to mop up after the starters have worn down the opposition. And they have mopped thoroughly.

JORDAN NAMED PURPLE LEADER FOR 1939 SEASON

Boys' High Adds Monroe Aggies, Rome to Grid-iron Schedule.

By ROY WHITE

Election of Jack Jordan captain and announcing a 11-game schedule for next year featured Boys' High's annual football banquet Wednesday night at the school cafeteria. Jordan was the choice of the varsity squad for the 1939 leadership, after various members of the squad had been named just prior to each game.

Monroe Aggies a former rival, and Rome High, newest member of the G. I. A. A., are the new teams Boys' High faces next year, while Greenville, S. C., is the only one dropped. Monroe was not on the regular schedule in the 1939 season and the state championship game replaced Maury's cancellation.

Eight of the games will be played here, with three and a tentative game with Knoxville scheduled away from home. The first nine in order are with members of the G. I. A. A. Commercial opens the card as usual on September 13 and Miami High closes the program.

Dr. Rufus Askew, president of the Boys' High alumni athletic association, was the toastmaster and introduced the speakers. Those on the program included Coaches Shorty Doyal, Dwight Keith and Bill Organ, Principal H. O. Smith, H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools; Gordon McNabb, George Stradman, Roy Davis, John Martin, Atlanta Journal; Jack Troy, sports editor The Constitution, and George Sabo, Ben Ehrlich and Frank DeFreese, former Boys' High players. Others present in addition to players included Mrs. Crawford, who supervised the banquet, and Claude Bond, former Boys' High trainer.

Members of the varsity squad were Glass, Furchgott, Almand, Andel, Franklin Fincher, Castleberry, Kenimer, Berman, R. Kennerly, McKinney, D. Kennerly, Alexander, Richards, M. Miller, Cox, J. Kelly, Smith, Jordan, Brandenburg, Bailey, DeFreese, Thompson, Haire, Conger, Brown, Eaves and Swindell.

The B squad included: Carroll, Roberts, Maffett, Pierce, Glenn, Coleman, B. Miller, Wood and W. Kelly, and team managers, Dickens, King, Watt, Price and Chaffin.

'Gulliver' Cartoon, Comedies On New Movie Bill of Fare

'Those High Gray Walls,' Prison Drama, Opens at Rialto; Laurel, Hardy Play at Paramount; 'Joe, Ethel Turp' To Appear at Rhodes.

"Those High Gray Walls," with Walter Connolly, opens today at the Rialto theater for a three-day run. Laurel and Hardy opened yesterday at the Paramount in their first joint comedy in a year. Opening tomorrow are "Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President," at the Rhodes; "Gulliver's Travels," at the Fox, a technicolor cartoon. "Gone With the Wind" continues at the Grand. The Capitol is playing "Three Sons," with Edward Ellis.

"JOE AND ETHEL" TO PLAY AT RHODES

"Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President," starts tomorrow at the Rhodes theater, bringing two old fictional friends to the screen. Joe and Ethel Turp, Damon Runyon's famous characters from Flatbush, Brooklyn, appear in the persons of Ann Southern and William Gargan. They visit the President of the United States in behalf of Jim, the postman, who lost his job because he destroyed a registered letter which would have revealed to a widow on her deathbed that her son had been killed in a prison break.

This motion picture episode of the Turps recalls such other of Damon Runyon's very successful contributions to screen fare as "A Lady for a Day" and "Little Miss Marker." Runyon's homely fables have a knack of promulgating sly, humorous sentiment that strikes a popular chord in the public mind.

The new comedy-drama has the advantage of an excellent cast. Miss Southern is seen in her best character role to date and Gargan gets his finest acting opportunity since he played "Handsome" in "Sadie Thompson." Lewis Stone is seen as the President, and Walter Brennan, twice winner of the Academy award for supporting performances, plays the postman.

LAUREL AND HARDY STAR AT PARAMOUNT

Laurel and Hardy, one of Hollywood's most popular and popular comedy teams, return to the screen in "The Flying Deuces," their first feature length comedy in more than a year, which is now playing at the Paramount theater.

This time the veteran comedians have taken to the airways as a background for their misadventures, a thrilling and hilarious climax being provided in the final sequence, as two Foreign Legionnaires sentenced to die for desertion, take flight in an endurance ship.

Morocco and the Legion provide a natural and dramatic setting for pageantry and tomfoolery.

Comedy highlights follow in rapid succession throughout the picture. There is the hilarious sequence where "tan encounters difficulty in performing his ablutions at a French inn's wash-stand. Later, planning of a double suicide is equally amusing. Audiences will be delighted to see how the pair withstand the assault of a squadron of soldiers with bottled champagne, and how they attack the problem of doing a regimental washing and ironing.

"HIGH GRAY WALLS" ON BILL AT RIALTO

The story of a kindly old doctor, who because of his human sympathy is convicted of technical crime and sent to the penitentiary, forms a powerful theme for "Those High Gray Walls," new Columbia production which comes to the Rialto theater today for a three-day engagement.

The shortness of this showing is caused by advance arrangements to open "The Amazing Mr. Williams," a sensational comedy starring Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell, at the Rialto Sunday, the day before Christmas.

Walter Connolly, Onslow Stevens and Iris Meredith are the principals in the cast of "Those High Gray Walls." Connolly, of course, is the doctor. Charles Vidor directed the picture.

Reviewers have hailed this picture as combining, in one story, the finest features of "Men in White" and "Big House." It is undoubtedly, a dramatic, moving story, but not lacking, either, in romance and comedy. Excellent pre-Christmas entertainment, replete with thrills and taut sequences.

"GULLIVER'S TRAVELS" TO OPEN AT FOX

The animated cartoon once again comes to the fore as a medium for bringing a full-length story to the screen with the release of "Gulliver's Travels," Paramount's Technicolor production, which opens tomorrow at the Fox theater.

So firm a hold has the full-length cartoon taken on the movie industry during the past two years that Paramount gave "Gulliver," the most elaborate production of any other picture that company has made in several seasons. It has been in work at the Max Fleischer studios at Miami, Florida, for nearly two years, represents efforts of several hundred skilled artists and was budgeted at just twice the cost of the ordinary "big" motion picture!

'Zipper' Pants On Davis Model Arouse Wrath

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 20. (P)—Criticism was fired anew today at Frederick G. Hibbard's model of Jefferson Davis, despite judgment of the Alabama Art commission that this sculptor's work was worthy of a place on the grounds of the first capital of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Jesse C. Roberts, president of the Alabama division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, said the plastic pants Hibbard put on the statue model "look like they were zipped up."

Hibbard's model was chosen at the recent Charleston convention of the U. D. C., which has raised $16,000 to place a statue of Davis at the old state house here.

grown-ups in the United States—or in the entire world, for that matter—who are not thoroughly familiar with the story upon which the technicolor picture is based. It comes, of course, from Jonathan Swift's great classic of a shipwrecked seaman's amazing adventures in the faraway land of "Lilliput," the land where everything—people, buildings, scenery—is one-tenth the size of its counterpart in the everyday world.

Like Dean Swift's immortal work, Fleischer's "Gulliver's Travels" is a textile woven of sheer fantasy, earthly humor and incisive satire. From the physical aspects of "Lilliput" and the contrast between the giantlike "Gulliver" and the tiny "Lilliputians" comes the rollicking humor of the piece. From the unparalleled pettiness and narrowness of the little people comes the Swiftian satire.

In his story of "Gulliver" Dean Swift created characters which have lived in the public mind ever since he wrote his book, two centuries ago. Most of them make their appearance on the screen in Fleischer's version. Moviegoers will meet "Little" and "Bombo," the pompous, ultra-nationalistic kings of "Lilliput" and "Blefuscu;" "Princess Glut" and "Prince David," the ethereal sweethearts; and the three slick spies, "Snatch," "Snitch" and "Snoot." In addition, Fleischer has himself created a major character which, advance notices predict, will become famous. He is "Gabby," the vociferous, gossipy, impudent town crier.

The eight songs from "Gulliver's Travels" are already familiar to all radio listeners, devotees of phonograph recordings and patrons of night spots. The much-played numbers are: "Faithful," "Forever," "I Hear a Dream," "It's a Hap-Hap-Happy Day," "Faithful Forever," "Bluebirds in the Moonlight," "We're All Together Now" and "All's Well."

"GONE WITH THE WIND" TO START SECOND WEEK

"Gone With the Wind" Saturday will open its second week at Loew's Grand under a road show, matinee and evening policy.

Manager Eddie Pentecost announced yesterday that tickets for the fourth week are now on sale and that, surprising though it may sound to most Atlantans, there are some good seats available to every performance before that date. Especially is that true in regard to matinee tickets, Pentecost said.

BURGLAR'S KIT FOUND ON PAIR, POLICE SAY

Arrested early yesterday, according to police, while carrying a quantity of nitroglycerin, caps and fuses, two men, listed as John W. Murphy and W. L. Alferson, were being held by police on a charge of suspicion of burglary, officers reported.

The pair was arrested by Radio Patrolmen S. W. Roper and W. D. Nash, who answered a burglary alarm call to the Continental Gin Company, 265 Foundry street.

Film Official Thanks City, State For Help in Staging Premiere

Publicity Director Coleman Says Success of Event Was Due To Co-operation Received From Atlanta and Georgia; Crowds Praised for Orderliness.

Thanks to Atlanta and the state of Georgia for the reception given "Gone With the Wind," its stars, and officials were expressed yesterday by E. B. Coleman, southern publicity director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who spent the past month in the city making preparations for the world premiere.

"It is with a sense of deep emotion that I thank the many friends who have helped to make the premiere the success it was," Coleman said. "The officials of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Selznick International Pictures realize that the success of the premiere is due in large part to the fine co-operation we received, and our appreciation is unbounded."

Coleman was enthusiastic in his praise of the orderliness of the people who crowded the streets and he expressed his admiration for the magnificent spirit shown by everyone. The southern publicity manager said it was almost impossible to name the people who have been of invaluable aid, but he called attention to a few whose leadership and interest did so much to endear Atlanta to the hearts of the movie folk.

The help of Mayor Hartsfield and that of Governor Rivers he especially commended, and along with them he thanked General John E. Stoddard, who brought members of the National Guard to the city, Chief Hornsby, Captain Jack Malcom and Major Lon Sullivan. He was especially complimentary for the services rendered by the Atlanta police and the state patrol.

"The tact and courtesy shown by these men was wonderful," said Coleman. "No where have I seen officers who were more polite or who handled crowds better. All of us appreciate their help more than words can express."

Alvin Moore, architect; E. K. Van Winkle, contractor; Mike Benton, parade marshal; Naber Faber Bollinger and Lambdin Kay were praised.

"To the Atlanta newspapers and to the wire services we are especially grateful," he said. "Without the magnificent co-operation of the press, we could never have hoped to accomplish the wonderful results that came."

Groups Listed.

Other persons and organizations which Coleman named were: The Junior League, for their fine accomplishment in presenting the Junior League ball; the Georgia Power company for its help in handling the crowds and the re-routing of cars in order to clear desired streets; the merchants of Atlanta whose window displays and decorations made the city beautiful; the Big Bethel choir who sang for the guests; Atlanta hotel managers who provided for special guests, and especially Edwin G. Muford, manager of the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Green Receipt, Thought Check, Pays and Pays

LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 20. (P)—An ordinary green receipt, given December 2 upon payment of $2 worth of garage work, today completed a journey through cash tills and over mercantile counters here after being accepted all the while as a check.

The receipt, pencilled on a standard form, ended its life as a thing of monetary value when a bank teller accepted it, charged it to the account of the garage, and returned it as a cancelled check.

The itinerary: An operator of a suburban garage gave the receipt to a customer on the customer's November bill. The customer, apparently forgetting it was a receipt, used it to pay a creditor. The creditor endorsed it over to a merchant who "guaranteed all prior endorsements" when he offered it to the bank for deposit. It was accepted for deposit and charged back to the garage's account.

All the time it read: "Received of $2."

CHRISTMAS CASH for CHRISTMAS CHEER
"Mr. Kemp, a friend of mine told me yesterday that due to an immediate well planned loan he got from your company he and his family are going to enjoy their best Christmas in years."
"I'm awfully glad to hear that, Mr. Reporter, and I'd like to mention that he is one of many practical, local people who are going to have a happier Christmas because they took advantage of the good obtained from an Industrial Loan. It offers any reliable person $50 to $1,000 at once!

"That means providing the money when it is most needed—NOW. And here's another practical feature of an Industrial Loan—
"The person easily borrows enough money to meet his complete financial needs—money in one loan to pay up all long standing bills—and end the worry of collectors' calls at Christmas time. Numerous bills are then out of the way, leaving only one payment—that of the loan—to be met just once a month and with convenient, long terms to complete the full transaction. The one monthly payment is definitely less than any average sum usually put aside to meet many weekly and monthly bills. Christmas money is included in the loan. That's not only convenience, IT'S GOOD BUSINESS.

KISS AFTER MIDNIGHT

Faith Goes to Astrid's Hotel to Ask Her to Retract Her Lies to Carl

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

SYNOPSIS.

Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, leaves a New England village, makes her own way in New York and after two years furnishes an apartment with Gretchen Cole and is secretary to Walter Edmonds, vice president of a large firm. Gretchen, stylish in a big store, left an Ohio town after a shattered romance. At a party given by Edmonds and his wife Astrid, Faith meets Frank Braggonier, musician and composer, whom Astrid loves. Even before Faith meets Carl Edmonds, Walter's brother, a famous aviator, she is in love with him, but she despairs when Carl says he will never marry because of his roving hazardous life. Gretchen is promoted to Paris buyer and refuses to marry Philip Turner but by accident they sail together to Paris and marry there. Young Michael, Britton wants Walter's 18-year-old daughter Sue to elope with him, she refuses, then is desperate when he says he will never see her again. Walter sends Faith to Florida with Sue and there Sue finds Michael. Walter goes alone to visit Sue and as he is rebuking himself for his feelings toward Faith, Astrid writes her a letter saying she is leaving him. Faith is taking Walter from Astrid, says he himself finally knew his back home. Walter asks Faith to marry Sue, but she says a cold good-bye with Michael but is alone then in a small town hotel. Faith phones Carl, he is there and they leave and that Michael became angry when the minister's wife said Sue was too young to marry, told Sue he wanted her only because Walter would give him a "soft berth" and left. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

... Next year he would be alone and he had not been alone for many years.

The morning lagged. The phone rang many times but it did not bring Gilbert Forman's cool attorney's voice. Walter dictated at length. There was a meeting that afternoon after a luncheon. Her work was piled high. Miss Benedict had not done a very thorough job in her absence in Florida.

The phone rang again. She picked it up anxiously, hearing Forman's voice. "Miss Gardner? This is Gilbert Forman."

"Yes, Mr. Forman." Her heart stopped. Who said that time did not stop? It stopped then. . . .

He said, "The person you wish to see will see you this afternoon at 3 o'clock," and gave her the name of a hotel.

Walter would be at a meeting. She would leave, saying nothing. "I'll be there. . . ."

"Good. I don't know what you can add to it but anything is worth while trying. Please let me hear from you and good luck."

"Thank you."

Eleven o'clock. Twelve o'clock. Walter said, "You will see that this is taken care of this afternoon, Faith?" Later he said, "We may work longer tonight. It depends upon the meeting. You'll have dinner with me, of course."

When he left, she went out to luncheon alone and walked the cold streets thinking of what she would say to Astrid.

She could see the scene—Astrid confident and beautiful in some lovely room putting her, Faith, in her place, making her feel small and stupid and ridiculous. The wife and the secretary, the wife too clever to be angry, the secretary too confused to be coherent; the wife with her neatly made plans, the secretary with her love and her loyalty. And the dismissal edged with charm and grace. . . .

She ate a little and returned to the office. The clock moved slowly around the hours. Think of something else! Think of your work or Gretchen and Philip!

Where were they now? She had lost count of days.

Gretchen would no doubt write, "Don't do anything about the apartment until I get back. I know that we can get some one to take it. And darling, I'm so happy." Her work. . . . How unimportant it seemed now that a man in Chicago must be written to and that a thousand and one details lay on her desk when the happiness of several people was at stake! What would Walter say when he found her work unfinished tomorrow? Perhaps nothing. Business seemed unimportant to him, too. What mattered the success of Walter Edmonds now?

Miss Benedict, still jealous, still cool, encountered Faith as she was leaving the building.

"Haven't you been to lunch yet?" she asked.

Faith said, "Yes, but I'm going out on an errand."

"But I thought you were taking dictation at the meeting."

"Miss Arnold is doing that."

"Oh, I see." Sly, jealous eyes. . . . "That's a stunning coat. New, isn't it?"

Mercifully the elevator came. It was odd to be on the street at this time of the afternoon. Office people, Faith thought, are accustomed to early morning, noon and 5 o'clock freedom. She hailed a taxi, repeating the name of Astrid's small but exclusive hotel, and then looked out at the smartly dressed shoppers.

New York in February, cold and windy, Fifth avenue a show of furs. Of what had she thought last February? She had been a child then, a dreaming child, living an uncomplicated life, thinking that love would be moonlight and sweetness, not knowing that pain commingled with love, that love was something not given but something fought for, something earned. . . .

"Which entrance, lady?"

"The main entrance."

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

Decatur Civilians will meet at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon in the Candler hotel to elect a full-time secretary and hear other plans for reorganization, it was said yesterday by President Wheat Williams.

Atlanta Woman's Club will entertain 65 children from the Atlanta Child's Home at a Christmas party from 2 to 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, and Oscar Lam, of Rome, will attend a sectional meeting of citizens interested in curbing forest fires, to be held in Birmingham, February 23 and 24.

Judge Robert Carpenter will be host at a Christmas dinner at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the Imperial hotel, honoring city, county and state officials.

Atlanta postal revenues for the first 19 days of December were up nearly 16 per cent, or $49,533.30 over the corresponding period last year, Postmaster Lon F. Livingston announced yesterday.

The Social Security Board announced the following public assistance grants to Georgia for the period January 1 to March 31, 1940: aged, $364,269; blind, $20,990; and children, $152,689.

The organization meeting of the 1940 Vestry of All Saints Episcoppal church, held Monday, resulted in A. H. Sterne being elected senior warden, Fred A. Hoyt, junior warden; Lloyd B. Hatcher, treasurer, and John Gilmore, secretary.

Louis J. Dinkler post No. 3563, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will play Santa Claus to a large number of underprivileged children at 2:30 o'clock Saturday at Taft Hall of the city auditorium.

Ladies Auxiliary of Camp Evan P. Howell No. 1825, United Confederate Veterans, were hosts yesterday at a Christmas party in honor of five Confederate veterans. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. W. D. Langley, 1800 Wade avenue, N. E.

Bank clearings yesterday gained $200,000 over the corresponding day last year, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported. The total was $11,500,000.

"A Journey to Bethlehem and The Shepherd Fields—on a White Donkey" will be the subject of the Christmas lecture by Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Ansley room of the Ansley hotel.

Continued fair and considerably colder weather has been forecast for Atlanta and vicinity today by the United States Weather Bureau. The morning's low is expected to be 30 degrees. Yesterday's low was 40.

At the City Hall

Riley Elder, municipal revenue collector, yesterday was "44 years young," he announced to his friends. He celebrated his birthday working "as usual, and since life begins at 40, I'm just four years old."

George I. Simons, general manager of city parks, yesterday was searching for Christmas tree vandals who Tuesday night raided Maddox park, cutting out two handsome cedars. The trees were about 15 years old. Simons warned that any persons caught cutting city trees or shrubbery will be "prosecuted to the full limit of the law."

It was a baffling question for Miss Peggy Osborne, secretary to H. J. Cates, city sanitary chief. Her telephone rang during the morning, and an irate feminine voice told Miss Osborne that the sanitary department should do something about "seven people eating at a table each day and using the same napkin—and a paper one at that." Something clicked in Miss Osborne's brain, and she referred the caller to Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, who failed to get the call.

Jim J. Little, deputy city clerk, will stage a double celebration

December 25. It is Christmas day and he will be 31 years old.

News of the death of J. M. Williams, 74, cousin of J. Sid Tiller, city tax assessor, was received yesterday at the city hall. Mr. Williams was a prominent Oglethorpe county citizen, and had been a steward in the Methodist church for 55 years.

At the Courthouse

Found guilty of stealing several hundred pounds of copper wire from Western Union telegraph poles, Solomon Hunter, 43, negro, was sentenced yesterday to serve five 12-month sentences in the county public works camps by Judge John McClelland in Fulton criminal court.

Michael Prater, 19-year-old youth who was accused of staging a seven-day crime wave from November 10 through November 17 during which he was charged with holding up and robbing six persons, was found guilty in Fulton superior court yesterday and sentenced to serve from 8 to 20 years in prison. Sentence was passed by Judge Virlyn B. Moore after the jury had found Prater guilty on all counts of a six-count indictment. Lost in the six robberies totaled $123.50. One of the victims was a woman.

BATTLE HILL LODGE INSTALLS MASTER

Dr. Willis B. Colby Heads Masonic Group.

Dr. Willis B. Colby has been installed to succeed M. L. Grubbs as worshipful master of Battle Hill Lodge No. 523, F. & A. M., it was announced yesterday. Other officers for 1940 are Paul H. Bynum, senior warden; Clarence L. Greene, junior warden; Dr. C. B. Hicks, treasurer; Nelson Crist, secretary; Luke H. Rowe, senior deacon; Hugh L. Cheek, junior deacon; N. T. Chambers, senior steward; M. R. Plunkett, junior steward; and Henry H. Burke, tyler.

RAY WILL OUTLINE 1940 CENSUS PLANS

Enumerators' Surveys To Begin Second Day in January.

Plans for taking the decennial census will be outlined in a radio address at 12:45 o'clock today by Oliver T. Ray, manager of the north Georgia census area.

Enumerators plan to begin their surveys January 2. The census within the city limits will be taken under the supervision of Fonville McWhorter, with Macy C. Miles as assistant supervisor. Their headquarters will be in Room 89, Walton building.

Fulton county territory outside of the city limits, and DeKalb and Rockdale counties, will be under the supervision of Byron A. Pinkston, of Atlanta.

COURTS TO RECESS FOR YULE HOLIDAY

Fulton Tribunals Suspend Activity Until the New Year.

All Fulton courts will be in recess during Christmas week, judges of the various divisions revealed yesterday. The two criminal courts of Fulton county recessed yesterday afternoon until January 8. Fulton superior court, criminal division, closed yesterday until January 2 while the civil division will recess tomorrow until January 2. Civil court of Fulton county will recess tomorrow until January 2. The grand jury is scheduled to hold a session Friday but will not hold its routine session next Tuesday.

The new grand jury will be sworn in and charged January 2 by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey who will preside in the criminal division during January and February.

CIVIL WAR, NAVAL OFFICER, 87, DEAD

Rear Admiral Reginald Nicholson Served Nation in Three Conflicts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Reginald Fairfax Nicholson, retired, last naval officer surviving from the Civil War, died yesterday at the age of 87.

Admiral Nicholson was a youthful captain's clerk in 1864 aboard the U. S. S. State of Georgia, and later served in both the Spanish-American and World Wars. He was navigator of the Oregon on its famous dash around Cape Horn in 1898 to join the Atlantic squadron, and took part in the subsequent battle of Santiago, Cuba. Before his retirement in 1914, Admiral Nicholson was chief of the navy's bureau of navigation and commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet. He was recalled to duty in the World War as naval attaché at Santiago, Chile; Lima, Peru; and Quito, Ecuador.

It cost 30 cents a mile to own and operate a motor car in 1900; now average cost is figured at less than three cents a mile in this country.

ROBBERY STOPPED BY CALM EMPLOYEE

Willie Lipham Refuses To Give Up Money.

The calm refusal of Willie Lipham, 26, to open his cash register at the demand of an armed stranger, yesterday frustrated an attempted holdup of Lipham Barbecue stand, in East Point police reported.

When Lipham, a brother of the proprietor, refused to follow orders, the stranger escaped in a automobile parked in front of the stand, police said.
